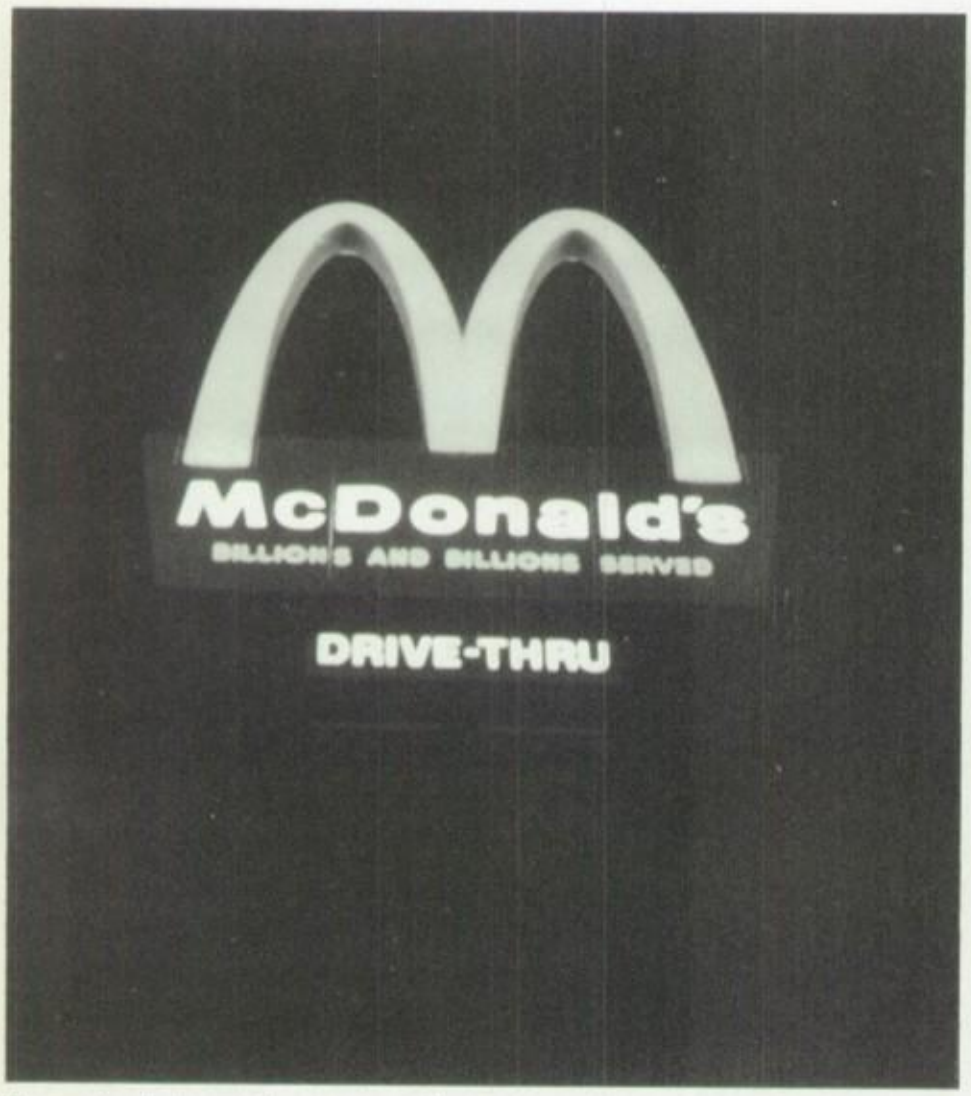
Students Get Extended Vacation



The extended vacation gave students more time to enjoy favorite hang-outs.

Signs of concern for students welfare, like the one shown here, were common sights during the strike.

. . . the news was met with mixed emotions . . .

Withstanding the heat of mid-day, Mr. Kobuchi takes his turn on the picket line.

While Teachers and Board Negotiate

During the strike, Charlene Bowen was able to finish the classic "War and Peace".

Jeff Donati captured the feeling of the situation with this picture of the turbulent sky.

The 1979-80 school year began no differently than any other year. On Tuesday, August 29, sleepy-eyed and reluctant students woke up on a warm summer morning and found themselves back into the routine of school once again. However, during this first week of school, rumors of a strike starting the next week dominated conversations. So many other schools had gone on strike, would Fort Cherry?

Finally, next Monday came, and, yes, there was a strike! The news was met with mixed emotions from the students. The idea of an extended vacation was very appealing, especially in such nice weather; however, a long strike would mean lost time to make up next summer.

As it turned out the strike lasted nine days, not too long when compared to some of the long walk-outs in other area schools. Unfortunately, the strike did take its toll on Fort Cherry's various fall sports teams who lost precious practice time.

Whatever their feelings about the strike, Fort Cherry students took advantage of this extra vacation time before it was time to settle in to their studies. Some were able to finish up a good novel they had been reading; others got in a little extra swimming or tennis. Those with summer jobs had a chance to earn a little extra money.

After the strike was settled, students went back to their school work perhaps a little less reluctantly this time. Throughout the school there was a spirit of cooperation between students, faculty, and administration to help correct any setbacks caused by the strike.

After being crowned Fort Cherry's 1979 Homecoming Queen, Lesa Donati and her escort Bob Lucarini prepare to pose for countless pictures.

Our 1979 Homecoming was, as always, one of the most glamorous events of the school year. Organized by the Student Council, Homecoming was held on the crisp autumn evening of October 19. The Rangers' encounter with Carlynton followed the event.

Six couples were chosen by the Sr. High student body to serve on the court. They were Lesa Donati and Robert Lucarini, Rose McLaughlin and Henry Cole, Michele Sember and Mark Baker, Ann Stanish and Thomas Johnston, Lori Stone and Jim Markovitz, and Claudette Zelinsky escorted by Keith Gallo. Last year's queen, Lisa Ruschell, accompanied by Student Council Representative Eddie Walker, was on hand for the ceremonies. The attractive, well-dressed couples were greeted by friendly cheers as they departed their cars and marched onto the field. Finally, the waiting was over, and the announcement of our 1979 queen, Lesa Donati, was made. Cameras snapped images of smiles, flowers, kisses, and cheers as Lesa departed with her court.

The remainder of the evening was perfect. Our band combined with Carlynton's to give a splendid halftime performance. The Ranger football team then capped off the night on a winning note with an exciting 7-6 victory over the Cougars.

Halloween Dress-Up Day

A teacher in a toga? Groucho Marx teaching art class? A walking hat and a talking robot? Well, that's just a cross section of what a visitor to Fort Cherry might have seen on the Halloween dress-up day sponsored by YEA.

For all of its strangeness, this dress up day was fun for all, faculty and students. Even those who did not participate could enjoy watching the great variety of costumes in the halls, classrooms, and parading through the special Halloween pep assembly. There was special entertainment by the band, majorettes, drill team, and cheerleaders in the form of vampires, witches and clowns. Although this was a senior high pep assembly, the junior high students who had dressed up were invited to join in on the fun. At the conclusion of the assembly, YEA gave awards for special costumes. An award was given for the best costume, the scariest, the funniest, and the prettiest.

This was truly a great way for the student body and faculty to relax and participate in the spirit of the Halloween season.

To help prepare her for Halloween day, Gwen Kearns applies clow make-up to Becky Speer.

Parents and Seniors Make

Proud parents accompany senior basketball players at their final game of their high school career.

One of Fort Cherry's finest traditions is the holding of Senior Nights. Members of sports teams, cheerleaders, majorettes, drill team, and band, along with their parents, are honored for the many years of service and dedication they devoted to the school. All sports hold Senior Nights, usually on the date of the last home game.

The most glamorous of these Senior Nights, of course, is the one held on the day of the last home football game. First, during a special Senior Pep Assembly, football players, band members, cheerleaders, drill team members, and majorettes are honored by the Sr. High student body. That evening, a pre-game ceremony is organized by the Athletic Boosters Club in which Football players and cheerleaders are honored. Then, during the half-time performance, senior band members, majorettes, and drill team members are given flowers and their names are announced to the crowd before their final high school performance.

As one can see, the holding of these special Senior Nights provides seniors and their families with proud memories which they will never forget.

On her last night of cheering for the Ranger football team, Co-Captain Renee Zarka is accompanied by her parents on this memorable evening.

Lunch Period: Most

The bell rings. Finally it's time to go to lunch. The social time of the day. The part of the day when friends can sit down and discuss last evening's date or that lousy test second period without the fear of being told to be quiet by a teacher. The time of the day when most complain about the food served by the cafeteria but eat two lunches anyway. Time to visit the office to buy a ticket for the chorus concert or the football game. Time to visit the lobby to buy a carnation or a candy cane for someone special, or maybe, just time to sit back and enjoy lunch along with the happenings of the morning.

As one can see, lunch is more than just a time to eat. Although eating is the main purpose of lunch, much more goes on than that. Students can be found frequenting the cafeteria, the cafeteria hallway, the office lobby, and the office for their own reasons.

Many students enjoy the pleasing atmosphere of the cafeteria for the duration of their lunch period. Granted, at times it is overcrowded but after the initial lunch rush, the cafeteria assumes a unique environment. After the majority of the students wander away from the cafeteria, many enjoy a leisurely second lunch without having to wait in line. Students can then sit and chat in what becomes a largely deserted room.

The cafeteria hallway and the office lobby provide pleasing surroundings for the students who choose to spend their time there. With the long benches at these two places, most students sit and gossip with friends while watching others pass by. The office lobby also serves as the hub for most student activities. Most clubs utilize the lobby during the lunch periods to sell things for their fund raisers. On any given day, at least one group can be found canvassing in this way. During the school year, anything from candy canes to posters to T-shirts can be purchased. Probably, the most important and impressive fund raising campaign that can be found in the office lobby is that of our choruses at Christmas. Our choruses are the school's chief fund raisers for the Children's Hospital Drive. The choruses display holiday decorations and urge students to contribute to the worthy cause.

During the lunch period, the office becomes another point of student interest. Lunch credit tickets are issued in the office, and many students take advantage of this program. Many others gather to purchase tickets for various school events which are sold in the office. Some students search for Mr. Calabrese or Mr. Loughman or some other office personnel to take care of a special problem.

All in all, lunch period is the most active and free part of the day for students. Undoubtedly, the morning hours never pass too quickly for all those who look forward to this most exciting part of the day.

Enjoying the time to get together with friends as well as to eat lunch, juniors gather at their favorite table.

Fort Cherry's new head dietician, Mrs. Danjou, has a busy schedule planning the daily lunches.

Juniors Give Great Performance With "Father Knows Best"

The Fort Cherry class of 1981 presented the annual junior class play on Friday, December 7 in the school auditorium. This year's presentation was the former radio comedy "Father Knows Best", written by Edward James. The three-act play was viewed by a full house on the night of the presentation.

Once again, a tremendous directing job was turned in by Mr. Filosi and his student director Lori McClements. The play starred Ron Russell and Jean McCaffrey as the Anderson parents, and Carrie Kalucki, Sandi Slaven, and George Bordo as their children Betty, Kathy, and Bud, respectively. The remainder of the cast also contributed much to the fine production. Mr. Filosi stated that the cast and the technical personnel of this play were the finest ever assembled for a theatrical production. He added that the cast and the crew should be commended for the many long days and tiring nights of practice that they put in to achieve such a fine performance.

Skiers Turn Winter Dreariness Into Fun Times

Full of excitement and anticipation, students load the bus for the trip to Seven Springs.

A little nervously, Lori Demnyan and Cindy McKean try out their skis and head for the lift.

After renting their equipment, Kenny Alrutz and Susie McCracken make their way out of the lodge.

The winter months often bring a slow down in activities with the cold weather and bad roads. However, the '79-'80 winter season brought a new experience for many Fort Cherry students. The Ski Club, newly organized this year, sponsored two skiing trips to Seven Springs which helped to brighten some of the dreariness of winter.

Braving the cold, students pulled on their long-johns and piled onto the bus which loaded at the Hickory Firehall. For many this was the first time they had been skiing, and the bus was filled with excited chatter of the experience ahead of them. Many joked (perhaps a little nervously) about broken legs and falling off the ski-lift, yet all were anxious to begin their adventure.

Arriving at Seven Springs, the students waited impatiently to receive their tickets, then hurried off to the lodge to rent their skis, and then on to the slopes. The beginners' slope — "Fawn Trail" — seemed to be the most popular place to get used to the skis and gain confidence. This slope proved to be tough enough for many; the more experienced and the brave took on the challenge of bigger slopes.

When they had their fill of skiing or just needed a little warming up, the lodge provided an inviting atmosphere. In addition to hot food and a game room, there was a big cozy fireplace to sit by while thawing out slightly-frozen toes and sharing experiences from the slopes until it was time to climb back on the bus for the long trip home.

On the way home, it was evident from the conversation (from those who weren't sleeping) that a good time was had by all despite all of the bumps and bruises. The students who went on these skiing trips were taking home many experiences to make the winter of 1980 a memorable one.

The fun and the thrill of downhill skiing are experienced first hand by Fort Cherry students.

Practicing her form, Cindy Margerum prepares for the gymnastics show.

The co-ed intramural program at Fort Cherry continues to grow and grow. This year, flag football was added to the program. Six other sports were also included: basketball, bowling, gymnastics, ping-pong, shuffleboard, and volleyball.

All of the students were able to participate in these competitions. Everyone had the chance to become a star athlete on the court or in the field. The games, although many times between friends, were as heated and as fierce as those between two schools.

The intramural program took place during the activity periods. Jr. High homerooms competed during the Wednesday activity periods while the Sr. High homerooms participated during the Friday activity periods. Bowling took place on Saturday mornings at the Cherry Hills Country Club. Gymnastics was usually held on Saturdays in the school gym. Fort Cherry's physical education teachers supervised the activities and acted as referees for team sports.

For most sports, two tournaments were conducted, one each for Jr. and Sr. High. Football was contested on the grade level with each of the three grades permitted to field a team. The other team sports, basketball and volleyball, were single elmination tournaments. Each homeroom was represented by its own team. Each grade then had one homeroom crowned as its champion with the three grade champs advancing to the finals. The basketball tournament had separate competition for boys and girls, while volleyball was co-ed. The individual sports were conducted in the same manner as the team sports but on an individual basis. For bowling, the bowlers were broken down into groups where they competed on the individual and team basis. Gymnastics was not actually a competitive sport. The program is a combined effort of both Sr. and Jr. High students who work to gain perfection for the spring gymnastics show.

Every year, the Junior-Senior Prom is considered the highlight of the school year. The 1979 Prom, Two Tickets to Paradise and Fantasy Island, was no exception. Students began choosing dates, buying tickets, dresses, suits, and renting tuxedos soon after the May 19 date was set. For the second successive year, the Prom and the Post-Prom were held at the Cherry Hills Country Club.

Reflecting the tropical theme, decorations included wild flower centerpieces and a natural background. Also, each girl was handed a silk rose as she entered the banquet room. An interesting activity was the crowning of the Senior King and Queen and the Junior Prince and Princess. Dave Leipold and Susan Walker were the senior winners while Jimmy Markovitz and Lori Stone won the junior title.

The '79 Prom was an evening of fun and laughter for Mike Lucarini and Karen Rehak.

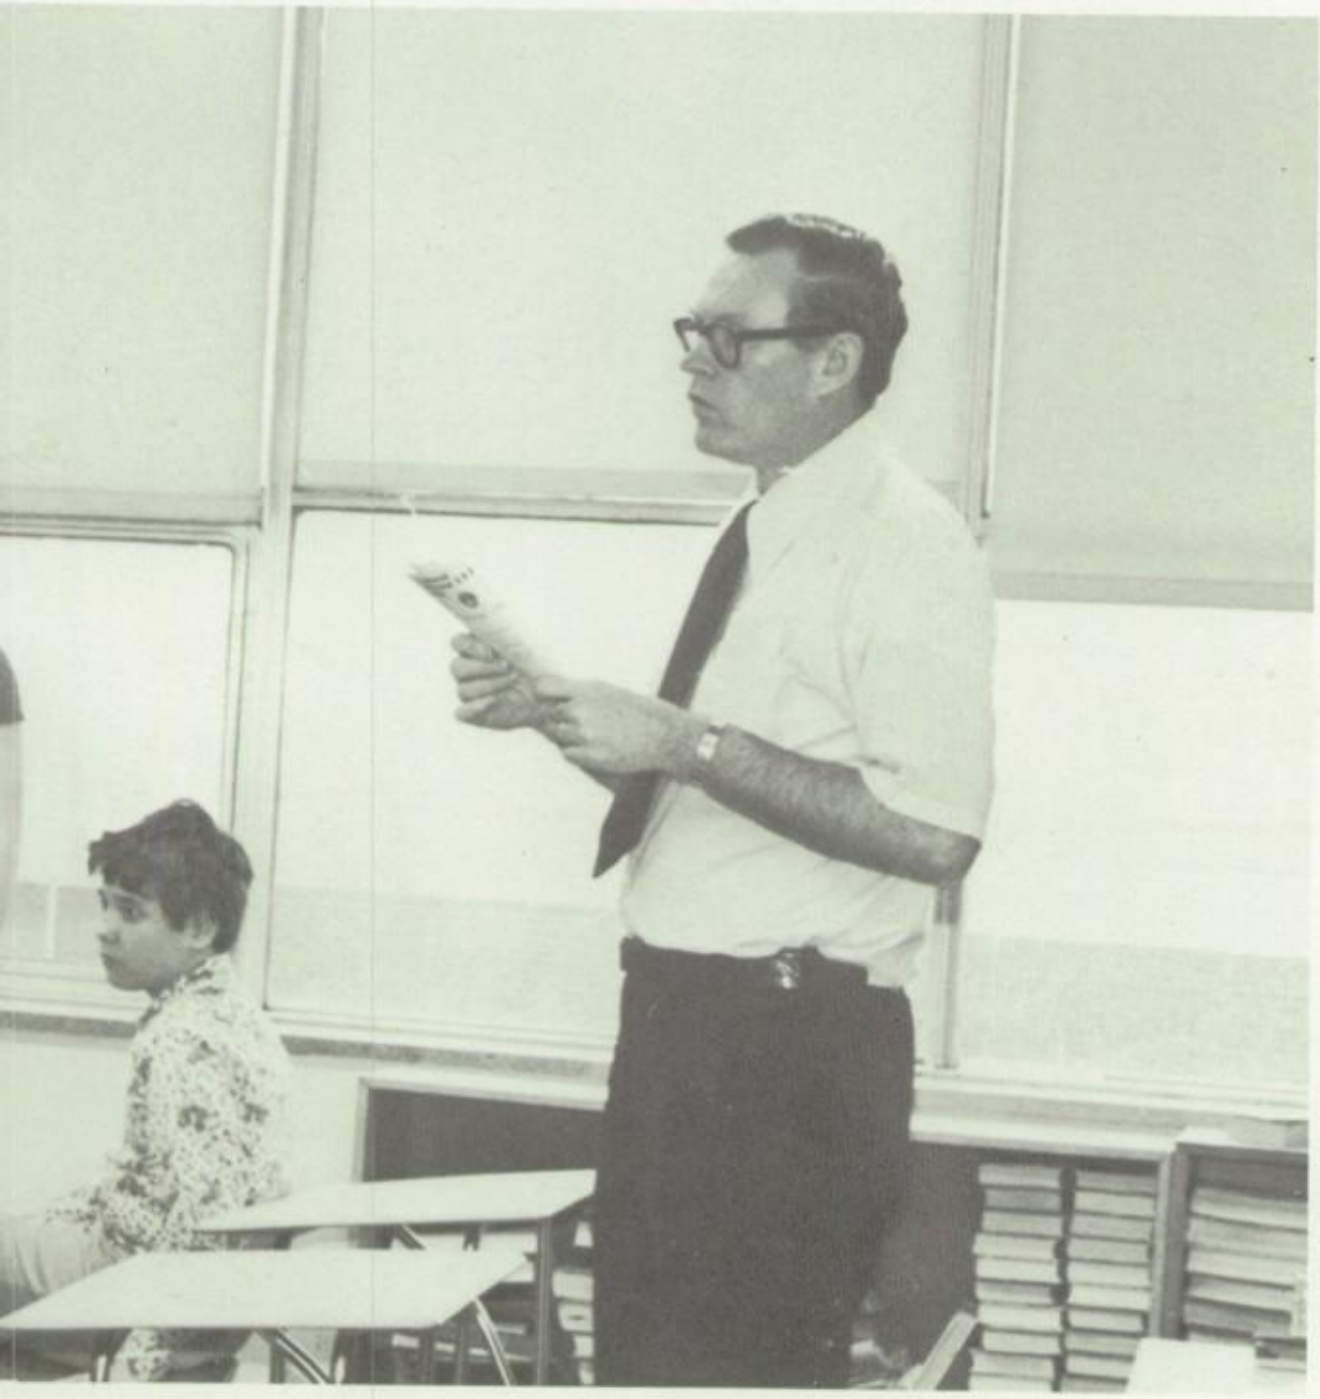
In the office lobby, seventh and eighth graders gather to sign up for the Spelling Bee.



To break the monotony of winter and to have some relief from classroom work, Jr. High students turn to the Spelling Bee. Each year, seventh and eighth grade pupils in the school are eligible to participate in the contest. Handled by Mr. Noll, a senior high English teacher, this contest is affiliated with the Washington County Spelling Bee, sponsored by the Washington Observer-Reporter and radio station WJPA in Washington, Pennsylvania.

One champion and one alternate is selected from Fort Cherry. The champion will then enter the County Bee. If the individual wins on the county level, that person becomes eligible to participte in the Western Pennsylvania Grand Finals in Pittsburgh during May.

Always Well-Planned, Pep Assemblies Produce Victories and Much Fun

A booming band, flying pom poms, sparkling batons, and deafening yells marked the activity periods during football season. During these activity periods, Fort Cherry's students banded together to urge the team on to victory through pep assemblies. Many hours of hard work by all involved went into making the pep assemblies glamorous and exciting for the balance of the season.

The school year was kicked off in a rousing manner with the first pep assembly. Students looked forward to the Friday assembly all week long, as the band, the cheerleaders, the drill team, and the majorettes worked desperately, trying to perfect their routines. Their work was rewarded with a roaring assembly which nudged the team on to a shutout victory over South Side Beaver.

Other pep assemblies captured student interest because of their special attractions. Everyone waited anxiously for the couples to be announced for Homecoming at the special Homecoming Pep Assembly. Special dress-up pep assemblies, such as the fifties and Halloween assemblies, led to an even greater student participation. Finally, before the last game of the season, the traditional senior pep assembly was held. The assembly, which always stirs a few tears, honored the graduating members of the band, cheerleaders, football team, drill team, and majorettes.

Each week during the football season, students looked forward to Friday for the pep assembly. The long hours of work that went into preparing these assemblies paid off as all involved enjoyed them.

Seniors Sell Magazines and Candy for Alma Mater Gifts

Viewing the awards displayed in the new trophy case donated by the class of '69 is Mr. Zeno.

From the time that one is able to conceive the idea of graduation, he looks forward to his senior year. The year is one of great joy, anticipation, and fun. Throughout the year, seniors are always involved as part of their daily lives in some special and rewarding activity dealing with being a senior.

One such activity is the sale of candy and magazines to benefit the class. The money raised through these sales is used to pay for the yearbook, for the banquet, and for any incidental costs the class may incur. But it is usually forgotten that the balance of this money is also used to purchase a class gift for the school.

Many of the items which are in use today in the school have been class gifts. Over the years, the senior class sponsors have worked together with the various graduating classes to come up with appropriate gifts to leave the school. Some of these gifts include the menu board and the trophy cases in the office lobby, the water fountains found throughout the school, the weightlifting machine in the new gym, the podium and amplifier found in the auditorium, and of course the folding chairs used in the gymnasium on commencement and graduation nights.

The sponsors of the class of 1980 — Mr. Morrison, Mr. Noll, Mr. Pusateri, Mr. Sprowls, and Mr. Yanosik — along with Dr. White will decide which item the school needs most. This item will then be purchased in the name of the class. Through this gift, we hope that all Fort Cherry students, present and future, will be able to remember our class — the class of 1980.

Favorite hang-outs and activities outside of the school were as much a part of the students' lives as activities that went on during school.

Throughout the year, Friday night was always the focal point of the week. It meant the end of school until Monday and the start of fun and relaxation during the weekend.

In the fall, football games were popular places to be, not only to get together with friends but also to support the team. In the winter, the football crowd became wrestling and basketball fans. Victory parties held after the games or matches at Pizza Hut or McDonald's usually topped off the evening.

Sporting events were not the only place students were found, however. Groups of friends had their own favorite hang-outs. For some, it was Friday nights at the skating rink in Cannonsburg or Saturday nights at Frank's in West Virginia. For others, it was a night out at the Show Case West to take in a movie or in Washington to go bowling.

Wherever they were, Fort Cherry students made their night life fun, though there were usually one or two special events that highlighted every month. It may have been a concert at the Civic Arena, a senior party, or a night out at the disco, but the nightlife in 1980 provided a lot of fun and excitement throughout the year.

Sr's Derive Class Play From T.V. Comedy Hits

Due to the increased quality of our school plays, they have become one of the highlights of the year. This year's Senior Class Play was no exception. Three smash hit comedies were involved in the program. They included the classic All in the Family, the familiar Maude, and the favorite Sanford and Son.

Having three plays in one was a concept devised by Mr. Filosi, the talented play director. Through this method, nearly the entire class can be involved in some way. Mr. Filosi's expert directing commanded the devotion of the entire cast and crew of prompters, property masters, publicity directors, stage managers, and student directors.

Hopefully, the theatrical program which was presented by the class on the night of March 14 will continue for many years to come.

High Grades and Athletic Ability Earn Walter Kosiak Dr. Hughey Award

In his Advanced Biology Class, Walt begins dissecting a fetal pig.

. . . Walt maintained a near 4.000 grade point average . . .

At lunch, Walt relaxes and enjoys some time to himself.

As a member of Bridge Club, Walt played often to sharpen his skills at the game.

The most prestigious award which can be bestowed upon a member of the senior class is the Dr. Charles M. Hughey Award. This award is presented to the senior who best exemplifies leadership characteristics, high moral standards, athletic ability, and scholastic achievement. This year, named as the recipient of the award is Walter Kirk Kosiak.

Walter has actively participated in many clubs during his years at the Fort. During his senior year, he was a member of the Math Club, Spanish Club, the Senior Magazine Committee and the National Honor Society and also the Secretary of the Rod and Gun Club and the Vice President of the Bridge Club. Athletically, Walter demonstrated tremendous ability during high school years. As a member of the golf team, he was the number five man as a sophomore, the number three man as a junior, and the number one man as a senior. Walt lettered all three years.

Dedication and patience are words which could aptly describe Walt's personal life. Highly regarded as an outdoorsman, he enjoys golf, fishing, hunting, and trapping as his hobbies. Walter is also an active member of the Pennsylvania Trappers Association who often participates in the District Three Fur Auction.

On the academic side, Walt maintained a near 4.000 grade point average throughout his years at Fort Cherry. This was an extremely noteworthy accomplishment considering that he yearly carried a full schedule of tough academic courses. When asked to name his favorite field of study during high school, Walt responded that the sciences were at the top of his list. Biology, according to Walt, was his favorite class. Walt also stated that he liked and got along with all of his teachers.

Walt will continue his schooling at the University of Pittsburgh. He plans to enroll in a field of engineering with electrical as his probable major. The students and the administration of Fort Cherry wish Walt the best of luck and hope that he achieves great success. If he continues to display the high quality of academic and social achievement that he did at Fort Cherry, it should be no problem for him.

Vo. Ag. Students Win Awards on

Throughout the year, the members of our chapter of the Future Farmers of America, the H. G. Parkinson Chapter, participate in many state and national activities. These members bring tremendous recognition to themselves and to the school as a result.

Undoubtedly, the most valued award that a chapter can receive is the FFA National Chapter Award. Through this award, the nation's most active FFA chapters are recognized. This award encourages members to participate actively in a wide variety of educational activities. The H. G. Parkinson was one of only seven chapters in Pennsylvania selected to receive the award. Our chapter was awarded a silver medal and ranked fourth in the state. All totaled, this is the third national award that the H. G. Parkinson has won.

The entire chapter also works toward another group activity. Throughout the spring of the year, students prepare for FFA Activities Week, which is held each June at Penn State University. In 1979, a member of our chapter, Brenda Bell, was elected Washington County Princess and represented the county and our chapter at Penn State. There, she was selected the first runner-up in the contest.

Each summer the National FFA conducts a Leadership Training Conference for chapter officers at Washington, D.C. In July of 1979, our chapter President, Kenny Alrutz, and Vice-President, Brenda Bell, attended the week-long conference. During this time, they had the opportunity to meet nationwide members and past and present state and national officers. Many valuable leadership skills which will come in handy in the future were gained at the conference.

A competition which chapter teams actively prepare for is the Parliamentary Procedure Contest. This year, the team consisted of eight seniors whose hard work and determination proved to be very rewarding. Within a twenty-five minute period, the team consisting of three officers and presiding chairperson is required to transact six items of business. This year, our team placed first in the county, first in the area, first in Western Pennsylvania, and fifth in the state. This is the first team from Fort Cherry to represent Washington County and Western Pennsylvania in the State contest.

During the year, chapter members shoot for various individual awards. One of these is the keystone Farmers Degree. This degree can be conferred on 2.5% of the state membership. Students must have demonstrated leadership abilities, developed a satisfactory project, and shown outstanding accomplishments in general. The 1980 Keystone Farmers are Kenny Alrutz, Brenda Bell, Cathy Nishnick, and Terri Toward.

Another award is the State Project Book Evaluation Award. In 1980, five members received this award. Kenny Alrutz and Terri Toward received gold medals; Cathy Nishnick, Donna Morrison, and Brenda Bell received silvers.

An individual award was earned by Cathy Nishnick who received the West-Central Production Credit Award. She was awarded this due to her outstanding record keeping in her supervised project program.

As one can easily see, our chapter of the FFA is one of the most respected and highest regarded in the county, if not the entire state. The school and community is extremely pleased with the outstanding work that Mr. Carter and the members have turned in. It is only hoped that this high rate of success will continue.

County FFA Princess Brenda Bell was first runner-up at state convention.

Displaying the 1979 FFA National Award with pride are Mr. Carter and FFA president Kenny Alrutz.

Melanie Carter Receives D.A.R. Award for Being a Good Citizen and Scholar

After class, Melanie takes a break and relaxes in the hall.

The qualities of character, dependability, service, and patriotism haven't disappeared in today's youth. A public symbol of these traits is displayed in the presentation of the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen Award. Out of the entire senior class, the faculty selected three nominees, Melanie Carter, David Punola, and Jody Sprowls; from these three, the senior class then voted Melanie Carter as the winner.

Melanie Lynn Carter not only possesses all of the qualities required of a winner, but also has set an excellent example for Fort Cherry's underclassmen to follow. During her years as a student she has been involved in many activities, clubs, and sports. Starting as a Junior High Cheerleader, Melanie went on to letter as a Senior High Cheerleader and was voted captain her senior year. The clubs which she was involved in include the Afro-American, in which she was an officer, French, Math, Varsity, Pep, and Literary Journal. Melanie also served on the Pinnacle Staff her senior year. Membership in the National Honor Society, Honor Roll, and Who's Who are other honors which Melanie has received.

Melanie plans to attend college after graduation where she will no doubt continue to excel.

Compete in Challenging Contests

Throughout the 1979-80 school year, the Fort Cherry advanced math class has been involved in a very challenging contest program. In this program, sponsored by the Pennsylvania Math League, students from Fort Cherry competed with seventy-six other high school teams throughout the state at both county and state levels. An entrance fee of forty-five dollars was paid by the Math Club to bring this contest into the school.

During the year, a total of six tests were given, each one a half-hour long and consisting of six problems which required a knowledge of Algebra, Geometry, and Trigonometry. After each test, the scores of each participating high school were compared and ranked in a special report. Scores of the highest scoring individuals were also included in the report.

After the fourth test, Fort Cherry ranked a strong third out of the seventy-six competing high schools. Eileen Quevi and Dave Punola were state ranked.

Although the results of the fifth and sixth tests were not known at the time of this printing, it is expected that Fort Cherry's team will finish in a high ranking.

The video class also entered a special contest. During the last week in April, Fort Cherry's video class sent in six film entries to California State College in California, PA. These entries were judged along with entries from many other high school video classes.

The students have been working hard all year to produce the six quality films to be entered in the contest. Many hours of work were put in outside of the class and even after school to produce these films. The work was sponsored by Mr. Stegenga who filled in for Mr. Horner for the major part of the year.

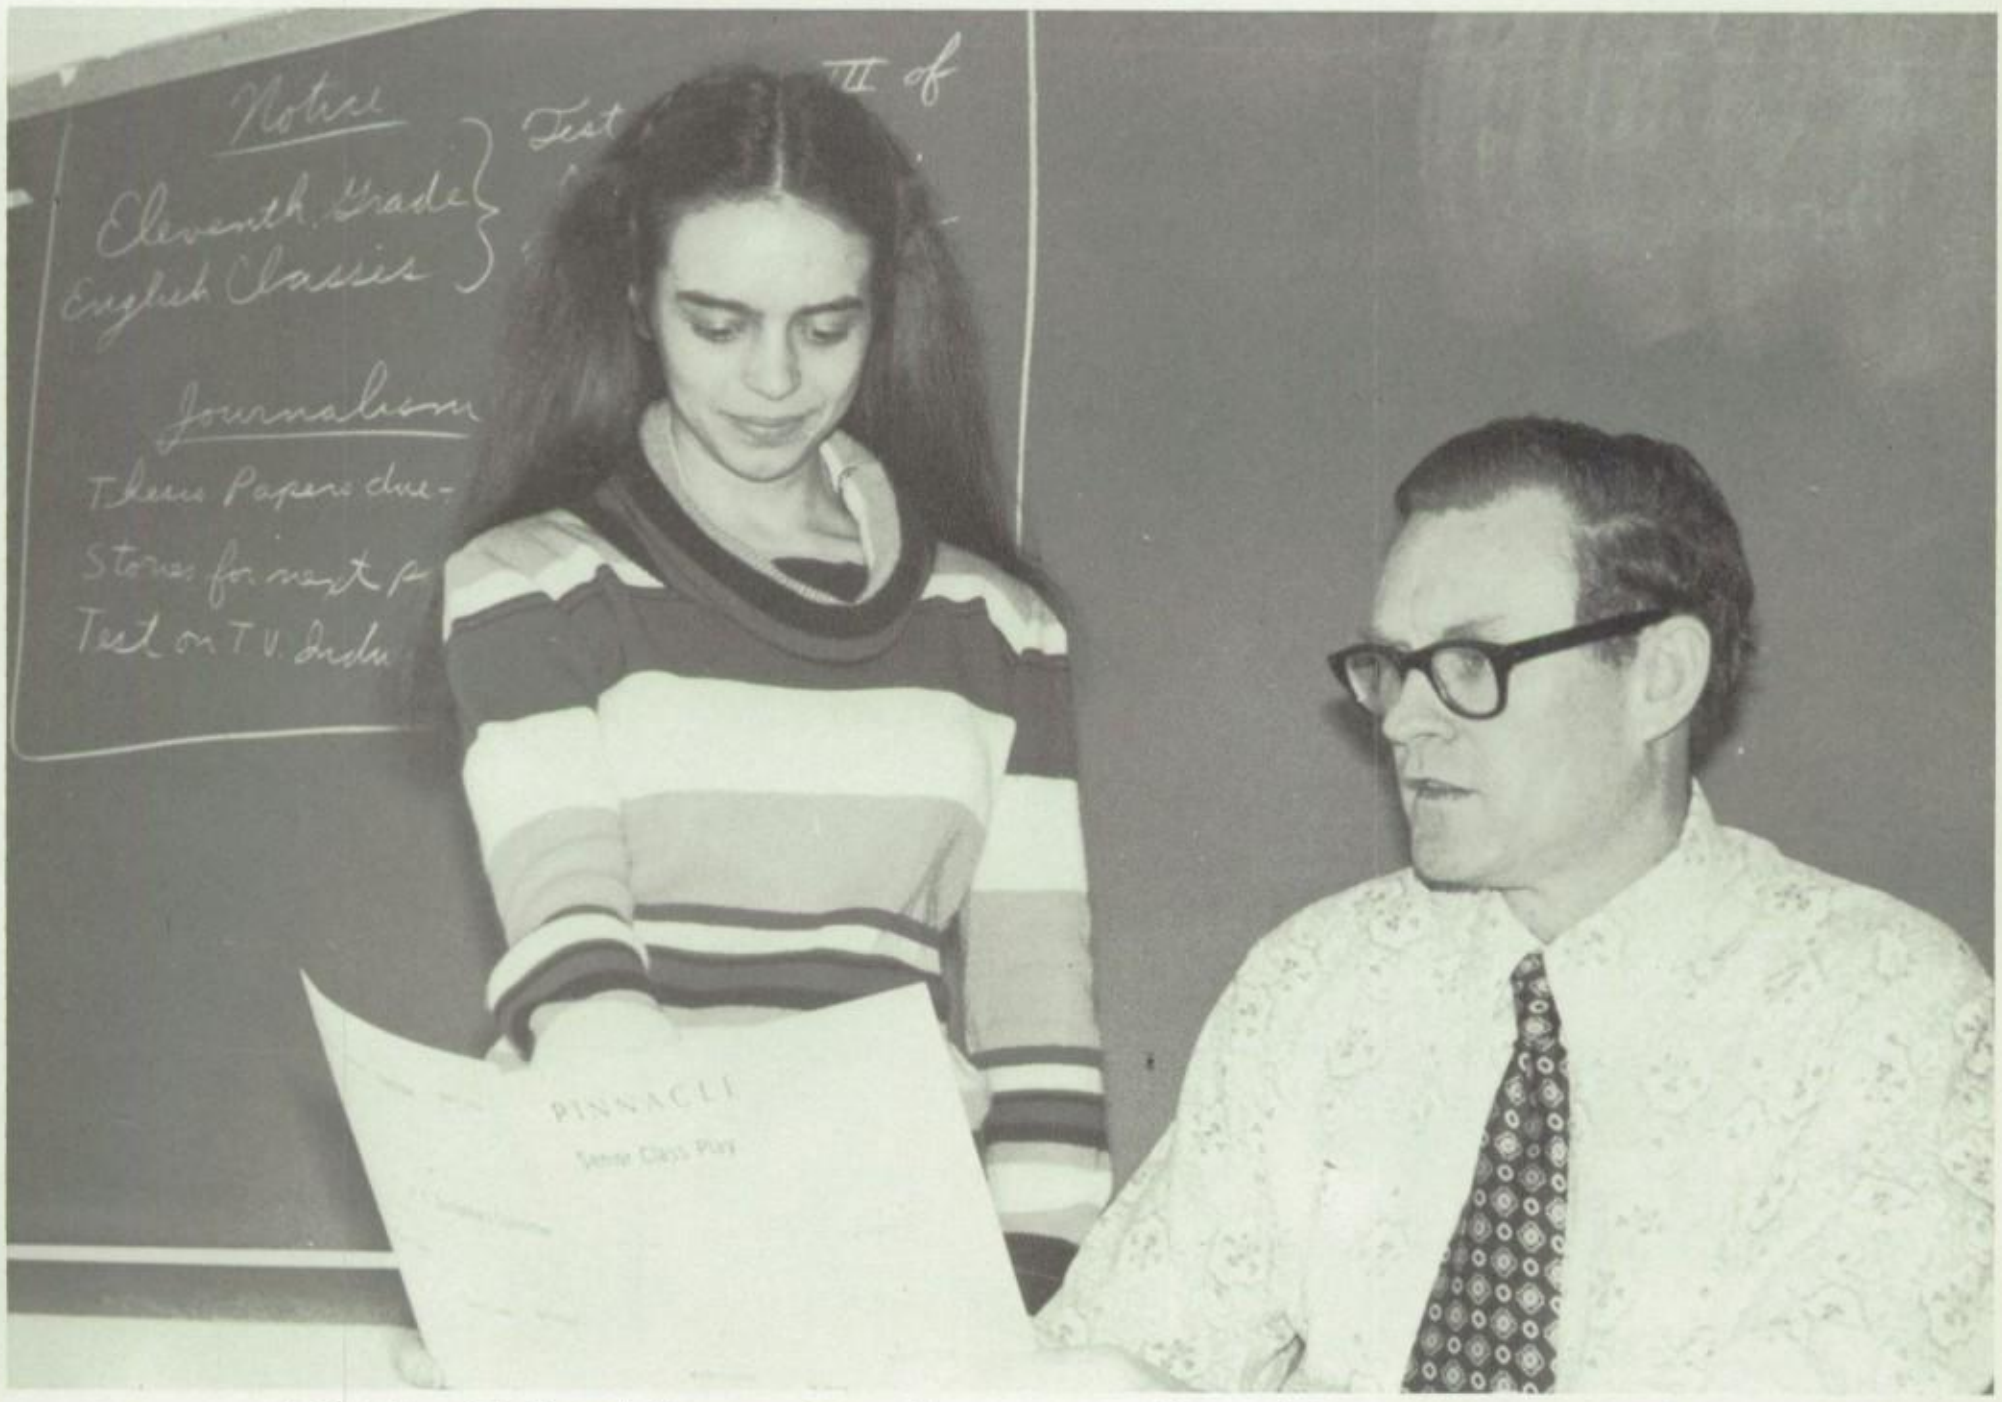
The awarding of the American Legion Auxiliary Award is one of the high points of the senior year. The award, based on service, honor, scholarship, leadership, Americanism, moral courage, and good citizenship, is given to the senior who best shows these qualities. Our faculty faced a tough decision but decided upon Melanie Carter, Sue McCracken, Jymme Phillips, and Jody Sprowls as their nominees. By a vote of the senior class, Jymme Phillips was chosen as the winner.

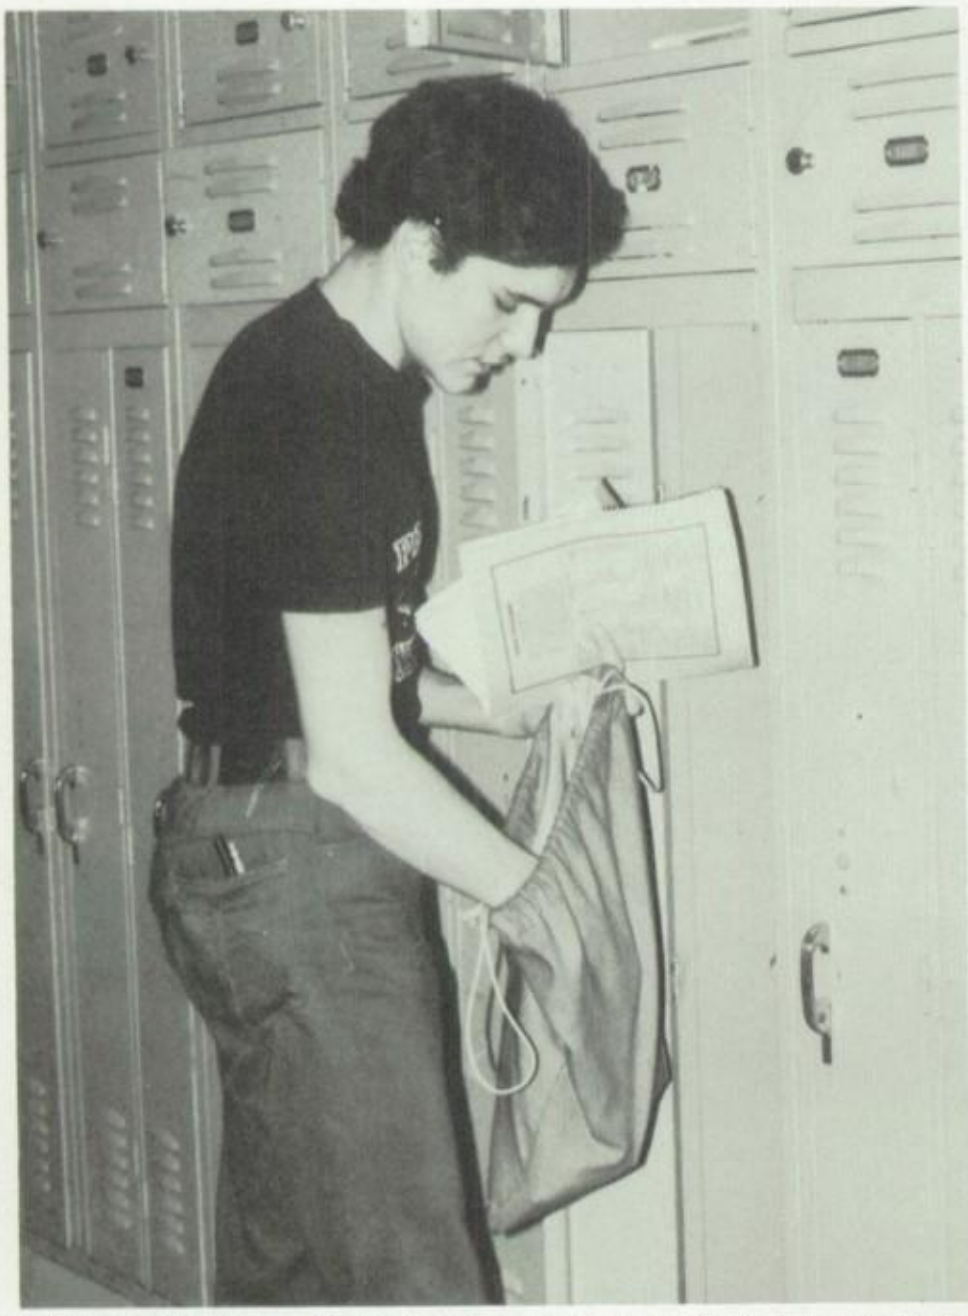
The faculty and the class couldn't have made a better choice for the award. One of the most devoted and well-liked students, Jymme has received many other honors including serving on the Student Council, Who's Who, Penn State scholar program, National Honor Society, and the Honor Roll. On her own time, during the summer of 1979, she attended the Duquesne University World Affairs Seminar. Jymme has also been active in many clubs, including Spanish, Pep, Varsity, Math, and Science. She displayed excellence in Chorus, where she was a section leader. As a cheerleader, she lettered three years. Jymme worked on the Panorama staff and was co-editor of the Pinnacle.

Computer Programming is the field which Jymme has chosen; we all wish her the best of luck.



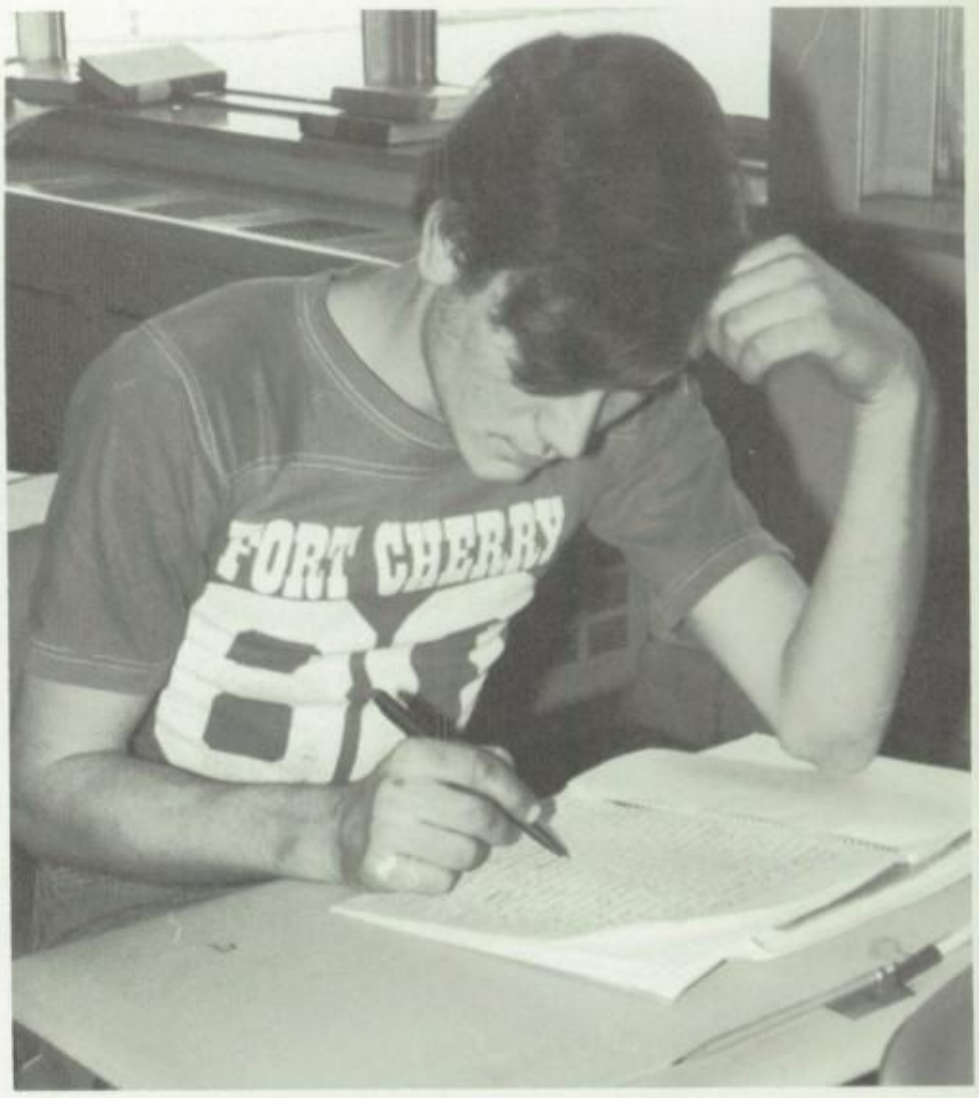
As Co-Editor of the Pinnacle Newspaper, Jymme discusses a recent edition with the paper's sponsor, Mr. Noll.

Tom Anestis Works on College Degree While Still in High School



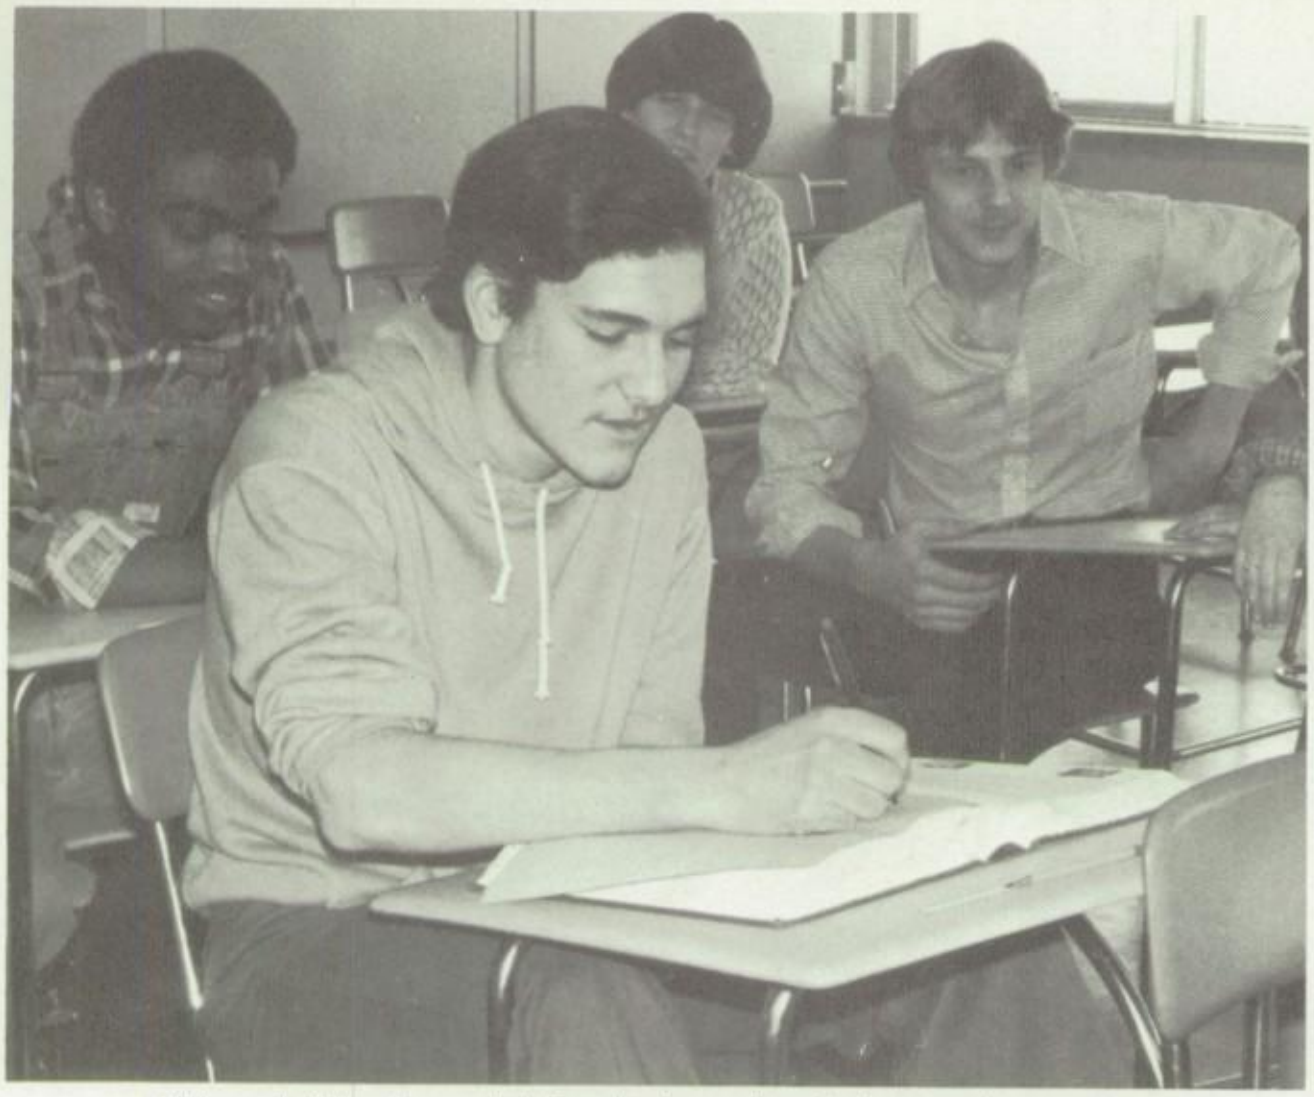
Arriving at the Fort, Tom begins the second half of his day with high school studies.

. . . Tom experienced his first taste of college . . .



Concentrating on his work, Tom proofreads a rough draft of his story.

Tom returns from a productive morning at Penn State-Beaver.



At the end of the class period, Tom begins work on his homework assignment.

Not all college bound F.C. seniors will need to wait until after graduation to experience their first taste of college. One of our students has already experienced the academic and social environment of a college campus. Tom Anestis began his college schooling one year early by attending the Pennsylvania State University at Beaver Campus. Tom attended PSU-Beaver during the morning hours and returned to Fort Cherry for the afternoon. During the summer, Tom also attended two classes at PSU-Beaver.

Tom feels that taking these classes — chemistry, psychology, sociology, and speech — while working toward his high school diploma was extremely important to his future college education. All of the courses that Tom took are required courses which he would have had to take as a freshman. By taking them while still in high school, he will have a much easier schedule as a freshman.

During his year at PSU-Beaver, Tom noticed likenesses and differences between the college and Fort Cherry. A likeness was the size of his classes at PSU-Beaver. For the most part, they contained roughly the same number of students that a Fort Cherry class does. A difference that Tom noticed was that a high school teacher usually becomes more individually concerned with his students. The difference in assignments was also a big change for Tom. He stated that it was not uncommon for his professors to assign two or three chapters to read over night.

This year, Tom is the only student from Fort Cherry to enter college on a part time basis a year early. In the past, several other students have also done this, including Tom's sister Diane (Fort Cherry class of 1977). Like Tom, she also attended PSU-Beaver. Tom's father, a teacher at Fort Cherry from its inception until 1963, is an English professor at PSU-Beaver.

Upon graduation, Tom plans to enroll full time at PSU-Beaver. He plans to major in some field of creative writing.

Vo-Tech Students Enjoy Split Days in 1980

Once again, Fort Cherry sent students to the Western Area Vocational-Technical School in 1979-80. At Vo-Tech, our fifty or so students were able to attend classes in any of fourteen different skilled courses. But there was a change at Vo-Tech this year. For the 1979-80 school year, our students attended the school on a new procedure.

During the past years, students attended Vo-Tech in two groups on alternating weeks. Each group spent the entire day at Vo-Tech. The week that the students were at Fort Cherry, they took two periods of English, History, and Math each day. The students were also required to take physical education four days a week. Under this system, students could not take elective courses and were not free to plan their own schedules. This year it all changed. The students attended Vo-Tech for the morning hours and returned to Fort Cherry for the afternoon. Under this new procedure, the students were able to take electives and were free to plan their own schedules. Also, the Vo-Tech students were able to participate in clubs and enjoy the overall rewards of high school life.

The technique of soldering is practiced by Ray Fehl on the front fender of a car.

The mechanics of air pressure is studied by Joe Bellaire.

During the second half of the day, Vo Tech students take high school classes such as Driver's Education.

New Teachers Bring New Experiences for Jr. High Students

The Jr. High was proud to welcome two new teachers to the fold for 1979-80. Both of these teachers, Miss Jerilynn Hainaut and Mr. Frank Bunecicky, proved to be a welcome addition, and we spotlight them here not only as part of our official welcome but also as part of our annual report on several Jr. High classes.

Teaching 9th grade English was Miss Hainaut's assignment. The students enjoyed her down to the basics approach, as she stressed the essentials of good grammar and composition. Miss Hainaut's students also enjoyed the insight she gave them to the different forms of creative writing. During her spare time, Miss Hainaut sponsored the Jr. and Sr. High Cheerleaders and the Jr. High Drama Club.

Mr. Bunecicky's new approach to geography made him popular with his students. His seventh graders liked the exploratory projects which he introduced to them. Those projects enabled the students to understand better world cultures and at the same time enjoy the projects themselves. Through these projects, the students were also able to make a smoother transition from science to geography. After school hours, Mr. Bunecicky served as an assistant football coach.

We welcome both of these teachers and wish them continued success in their classes.

Band and Chorus Students Show Off Talents Away From School

Each year students are selected from Fort Cherry's band and chorus to participate in the Washington County Band and Chorus Festival. This year the outstanding vocalists and musicians chosen to participate were Terri Toward, Lori Williamson, John Campbell, Joe Federoff, Tommy Johnston, Corey Makrush, Jamie White, Emery Yuhas (County Chorus), Dawn Babcock, Kelly Baldigowski, Judy Brown, Colleen Fasnacht, and Marcia Masi (County Band). The students rehearsed March 22 and 27, and the concert was held the evening of the 27th at McGuffy High School.

Fort Cherry's County Band and Chorus performed various vocal and instrumental selections and a few combined selections as well. The musical numbers performed included: "Sing Praises", "As Fair as Morn'," "Love is Here to Stay," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "Rhapsody."

Another honor for chorus and band members was that of being chosen for District and Regional competition. Jeff Bezusko was chosen to District Band; Chris Kramer and Mark Rehak were chosen to District Chorus, with Chris Kramer going on to Regional Competition.

All of these students have worked hard to develop these talents and have done a fine job of representing Fort Cherry in these competitions.

Seniors Attend Seminars

As their final year in high school drew near, many seniors began to make definite plans on their future. Some visited colleges to investigate the surroundings and examine the courses. Some started part-time employment which they will assume as full-time jobs upon graduation. And some attended college seminars to gain added insight into areas of study or to gain required hours of credit. At least seven 1980 graduates attended these specialized seminars during the summer and early fall.

One such student was Debbie Clemons. She attended a two-week course at Lehigh University at Bethlehem, PA for a minority introduction to Engineering. While at Lehigh, Debbie toured various area corporate facilities, such as Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania and Bethlehem Steel.

Another student who attended a seminar at Lehigh was Debbie Klimas. Interested in computer science, she was able to examine and experience the use of computers for business and scientific use first hand.

Jamie White also attended a science-related seminar during the summer of 1979. The one month course was sponsored by and held at the Rose-Hulman Institute of Technology in Terre Haute, Indiana. During his stay, Jamie attended the introduction to engineering seminar. Along with seventy students from twenty-eight states, he experimented in R-H's labs and listened to various speakers on the subject of engineering.

Two other students attended local seminars. Jymme Phillips and Dave Punola attended Duquesne University for The World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh's world affairs seminar. For one week, they listened to a different nationally known speaker each day. The speakers presented the group with the issues of world problems such as the oil shortage or the unfavorable balance of military power between the United States and the Soviet Union. The participating students then broke up into discussion groups to examine and try to come up with a viable answer to the problems. On the final day of the seminar, a buffet luncheon was held with Peter Flaherty as the guest speaker.

Jymme Phillips and Beth Sawhill attended the Pennsylvania State University's Jr. Science and Humanities Symposium at State College, PA. The three-day seminar (November 4-6), attracted students from many state high schools. The two girls gained lab experience and heard various speakers at the seminar. They also viewed the campus and visited Fort Cherry alumni who are currently enrolled at Penn State. Mr. Lauff accompanied the two girls to the seminar.

One student attended a course which was immediately beneficial to him. Jim Margerum attended the Allegheny Community College for a four credit course in paramedical medicine. Upon successful completion of the course, Jim landed a job with the Rescue West Mobile Emergency Unit. Stationed in North Fayette Township, Jim worked for the unit while completing his high school education.

Being Best Science Student Earns Beth Sawhill Bausch & Lomb Award

The Bausch and Lomb Science Award was given this year to Beth Sawhill, who has proven her talents and abilities in many aspects of the science field. Throughout her years at Fort Cherry, Beth has carried a heavy course load of science courses including Earth Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. She has also studied in the advanced programs of many of these subjects.

This heavy course load required much of Beth; but through much hard work, she was able to excel in her studies. Beth has constantly achieved high grades in all of her classes; she has set for herself the highest of academic standards and has lived up to them.

Beth has also devoted much time to other interests such as music and cheerleading. As a member of Fort Cherry's chorus since seventh grade, Beth has performed in many concerts, both as a singer and an accompanist on the piano which she has been playing for many years. As a cheerleader, both in junior and senior high, Beth's outgoing and energetic personality showed through in true Fort Cherry spirit.

Beth has been a member of the student council and also quite involved in other organizations, such as YEA, Math Club, and Science Club. Outside of school, Beth is active in her church youth groups and gives piano lessons to children in her home.

Beth plans to enter the medical profession, and knows she must work hard to achieve this goal. She will attend the University of Pittsburgh in the fall with the solid background of Fort Cherry's science program behind her, which will benefit her in college as well as in her career. We wish Beth the best of luck and success in the future.

Senior Night ceremonies hold memories for Beth and her mother.

Tia Chiera and Mark Cole Winners of American Legion Eighth Grade Awards

The American Legion Award is given each year to the eighth grade boy and girl who by the decision of both their teachers and peers best represent the youth of America in qualities of leadership, patriotism, and scholarship. Twelve boys and twelve girls were nominated by the junior high teachers to be considered by the eighth grade class for the awards. The nominees were: Bruce Bistarky, Matthew Carlisle, David Catrain, Mark Cole, John McCarty, Kurt Nuckels, Damon Partozoti, Peter Pascuzzi, Joseph Phillis, Robert Ralston, Timothy Richards, Robert Stewart, Lisa Bedillion, Beth Bennett, Michelle Bernard, Jody Bongiorni, Tia Chiera, Dawn Finley, Jennifer Finlay, Heather Johnston, Gina Meute, Dawn Nutbrown, Marianne Russell, and Marci Zarka. Although all the nominees showed fine qualities deserving of recognition, the eighth grade students elected Mark Cole and Tia Chiera as winners of the award.

In special recognition of this honor, a junior high assembly was held in the spring at which Mark Cole and Tia Chiera were given their awards and all the nominees were recognized. Parents and family were invited to the assembly to share in the excitement and honor of the winners and candidates.

Business Club Award Goes to Sandy Howell for Outstanding Achievement in Business Courses

Sharpening her skills on the adding machine, Sandy is hard at work.

. . . Sandy has maintained a high level of performance . . .

With great accuracy, Sandy types a business form.

In Office Practice class, Sandy becomes skilled at using the ditto machine.

Sandy Howell was chosen as the recipient of the 1980 Business Club Award given to recognize outstanding achievement in the business curriculum. Sandy is well-deserving of this honor for she has worked hard to maintain a high level of performance and consistency in these courses.

As a sophomore, when each student is able to choose his field of study in the Senior high — whether vocational, business, general, or academic — Sandy opted for the challenge of the business curriculum and sought to develop her talents in this program. She has enjoyed the years she has spent as a business student and has learned much from all of her courses, though she feels certain classes have been particularly important. "The classes that have helped me the most," comments Sandy, "were Business English and Office Practice. I learned the basic grammar I will need in the office plus how to use different machines."

Sandy does not plan to go on to school for she feels she has gained enough training through Fort Cherry's business program to get the kind of job she desires after graduation. Sandy plans to enter the secretarial field, but she also wants to expand her abilities beyond that of a secretary. "I'd like to do some accounting also," she explains.

Sandy has firm beliefs about what it takes to succeed in the business world and in life. "I think that if you have a good attitude about something and you are determined to do your best," she says, "you will be able to do what is required in your choice of career."

Sandy is wished the best of luck in achieving her goals.

National Honor Society Members Honored for Good Grades and Other Requirements

The National Honor Society is an organization composed of students who excel in academic work. To be admitted, one must have a grade point average of 3.000 or better as well as qualities of good character, worthy leadership, and commendable service.

The graduating seniors honored this year have shown enthusiasm for scholarship and achievement. For the other qualifications, however, their membership had to be approved by the members of the faculty and by the school principal, Dr. White. Membership in it, therefore, is not a right but an honor that must be earned. If high standards are not maintained, the honor may also be withdrawn.

At the end of the school year, a banquet is held for all National Honor Society members. At the banquet, members enjoy good food and fellowship and are given certificates of recognition from the society. It is hoped that in the future, members will retain the qualities and ideals that have earned them this honor.

Final Season in Black Hills Conference

Competing for the last time in the Black Hills Conference, the 1979 Ranger football team finished the season with a five win, three loss, one tie record. With the realignment of high school football conferences coming in 1980, the Rangers faced traditional foes such as Burgettstown and West Allegheny for the final time in section play. Fort Cherry, one of the most successful teams ever in the Black Hills, will meet local rivals such as Chartiers-Houston and South Fayette in the upcoming years in section competition. Thanks to the coaching of Mr. Garry and his assistants, Mr. Antoszeski, Mr. Bunecicky, Mr. Johnston, Mr. Linkesh and Mr. Tokar, the last Black Hills season was a successful one.

The Ranger season was one that was exciting, keeping the fans on the edge of their seats. The fighting Ranger spirit was evident in all games especially the 7-6 victory over Carlynton on Homecoming Night. At the time, the Cougars were undefeated and ranked in the WPIAL. Just as exciting was the 17-14 comeback victory over Avonworth. Seniors Alan Clayton, Tim Garry, Perry Kemp, Bob Komec, Damon Powell, Kevin Scott, Cort Templin and Jeff Wagner were named to the all conference teams.

As the season ended, many looked back on the years in the Black Hills with fond memories but at the same time looked forward to the exciting and mysterious seasons upcoming in the new conference.

The outcome of many games rested with the talented toe of kicker Kevin Scott who converts an extra point here.

Winning strategy is given to Dave Lugaila by head coach Mr. Garry as assistant Mr. Tokar looks on.

New Coach Leads Team Through Tough Section

Under the guidance of a new head coach, Mr. Carl Grinage, Jr., the 1979-80 boys' basketball team provided many exciting moments for its faithful fans. The team finished the season with an overall record of seven wins and fifteen losses and a four and eight mark in tough section nine competition.

This was Mr. Grinage's first year as a head coach on the high school level. Last year he served as assistant to then head coach, Mr. Cunning. Mr. Grinage comes from a strong basketball background. He was a standout performer for the Washington High Prexies in the early seventies and continued to display his court magic at Clarion State College.

The team opened the season with an exciting 67-66 victory over powerhouse Quigley High School. This victory will go down in the books as a win for Mr. Grinage in his coaching debut. Another highlight of the season was the Rangers' championship in the annual Fort Cherry Christmas Basketball Classic. Senior guard Perry Kemp was named to the all-tournament team. The Rangers also won two exciting section games: one, a last minute victory at Chartiers-Houston where the Rangers came from behind at the half; the other, a double overtime victory over McGuffey.

The high scoring Ranger attack was paced by Seniors Gary D'Angelo, Perry Kemp, and Damon Powell while Seniors Eric Briggs, Tim Edmonds, Joe Federoff, and Bob Lucarini led the stingy defense. Hope for next season is provided by Juniors Maurice Allen, Greg Dadowski, and Scott McCracken.

Through Mr. Grinage's great knowledge of the game and through the competitive spirit he instills in his players, it shouldn't be long before our team is back on the track to a section championship.

Rangers Finish Second in Section

The varsity wrestling program has been one of the most successful and exciting sports at the Fort. The 1979-80 Rangers were no exception, capturing second place in their section with a seven win, one loss record Overall, the team ended the 1979-80 campaign with a twelve win, five loss record. Outstanding performances by the team in district tournaments also added spark to the season.

Surely, the highlight of the season came on January 30 when our Rangers traveled to Burgettstown to meet the Blue Devils for the section crown. The score swayed back and forth as the Rangers wrestled valiantly in all weights. Sadly though, the final score showed our team coming out on the short end of a 31-24 decision. The team should feel pride in knowing that they gave Burgettstown, the team which would eventually become the WPIAL runnerup, a good tussle. Another seasonal highpoint came on December 11 against Carlynton when the Ranger coaching duo of Mr. Antoszeski and Mr. Dellapina recorded their one hundreth career coaching victory.

On the tournament circuit, the Rangers proved once again to be one of the county's top squads. Seniors Jim Markovitz and Tim Garry were crowned champions at the Black Hills Tournament on December 14 and 15 at Carlynton. Additionally, three others gained runnerup status: Junior Jim Brezinski, Senior Rick Moore and Sophomore Ron Slaven. As a team, the Rangers finished in second place. At the South Fayette Tournament, the Rangers again had two champions. Jim Markovitz captured his second title of the season, and Jim Brezinski won the championship in his weight class. Ron Slaven was again a runnerup. Senior Rick Moore showed his mat prowess at the California Tournament, wrestling his way to fourth place in a field of thirty-two.

This season's varsity squad proved to be one that was very versatile, with many wrestlers able to compete in more than one weight class. The above mentioned Seniors, along with Jamie White, had successful final seasons as starters. Two other Seniors, Tom Johnston and Dave Neal, provided excellent depth off the bench. Juniors George Bordo, Greg Bowman, Jim Brezinski, Howdy Heron, Bill Litman, Joe Stanish, and Roger Turk performed admirably and should form a strong nucleus for next year. Sophomores Dan Barr, Eric Fasnacht, Ron Slaven and Don Tokar, along with Freshman Troy Coufman, should have many successful matches left in their careers.

It is only hoped that future Fort Cherry mat squads will be able to emulate the fine tradition that this season's team set.

Although the 1979 golf season was delayed by the two week teachers strike, the team pulled itself together in time to become a serious threat to Section 16 competition. Having the section and state qualifiers cancelled was a serious blow to the team, but it managed to keep every match close. They ended the season with a two win-four loss record.

The six lettermen on the team should be commended for the fine job they did in holding the team together. Forming the nucleus of the team were the three senior lettermen: Walt Kosiak, Henry Cole, and Jim Markovitz. Looking forward to next year, Coach Yanosik predicts a good season with the help of the three returning lettermen: Junior Jim Hainaut, Sophomore Duane Cole and Freshman Troy Coufman.

Cross Country Athletes Keep

Putting forth a lot of time and effort, the cross country team had another successful season. Painful hours of training paid off as the team ran well in all matches and looked especially good on the tough Fort Cherry course. The 1979 squad was under the direction of a new coach, Mr. Grinage.

This season, as always, the team served a dual purpose. Naturally, the team existed as a true form of competitive athletic sport, gaining the same respect as other school sports. But it also served as an off season sport for many of our fine athletes. With the basketball and wrestling season not commencing until winter, the athletes who compete on these teams and who don't play football need some sort of sport to keep themselves in shape during their off season. Cross country serves as an excellent activity to do so. The majority of the squad members went on to compete in other sports with the advantage that cross country gave them.

Whether running cross country as their main sport or whether competing in it as a physical fitness activity, these fine athletes deserve much respect for enduring through this grueling sport.

As Season Progresses, Volleyball

Unable to begin practices on schedule because of the strike, the girls volleyball team struggled through a tough season in 1979. The team finished with a three win and eleven loss record.

The first opponent the girls faced this season was the strike. Most of their valuable pre-season practice time was lost, and when the season opened, our girls were generally behind most of the other district squads. But as the season wore on, the girls picked up pace, and coach Miss Keller blended all their individual talents into a competitive force. Usually, most of their late season games were pushed to the three match limit.

Rosie McLaughlin was the varsity high scorer with 71 points followed by Sue McCracken with 63 points. Sally Engel led the team in aces and kills with nine and twelve respectively.

With only three of this season's starters leaving, the team should be ready for a fine season next year.

Exciting Girl Cagers Struggle Through a Difficult Season

The 1979-80 version of the Girls Basketball team fought through a difficult season, finishing with a zero win, twelve loss record. The girls played an exciting brand of basketball highlighted by great individual performances. Senior Sue McCracken led the team in scoring with 124 points and tied with Junior Cindy Wise for the rebounding lead with 56. Although they struggled through a winless season on the court, head coach Miss Smith and assistant Mr. Menzies led the team to victory in many other ways.

One such victory was certainly won when the girls started to realize what it is like to take part in athletic competition. They learned what it is like to sweat and work hard like their male counterparts in order to become successful. They learned what it is like to give up much of their personal life so they could devote their full attention to the team. They learned that giving their all — that giving until they could not give any more — is, in a way, also a kind of triumph.

The girls should also feel pride in knowing that the school is thankful for their being goodwill ambassadors from Fort Cherry. They constantly demonstrated that "old Fort Cherry spirit" on the court and off it. Even when far behind, the lady Rangers never gave up; as the season progressed, the girls were in every game until the final buzzer.

The Seniors who leave this team — Debbie Clemons, Debbie Klimas, Sandy McConaghy, and Sue McCracken — should feel victory in knowing that the younger members of the team looked up to them for inspiration and guidance in those many difficult moments. These four girls provided the nucleus of the team on and off the court; they held the team together when it appeared as though it would all fall apart.

Most of all, the girls learned how to lose with pride, realizing that winning was not the most important accomplishment they could attain. Surely lasting friendships will rise out of this endeavor, and the feeling of self achievement will abound. And isn't this what high school sports is supposed to be about anyway?

Winning Season a Product of

The excellence which can be achieved in girls athletics is demonstrated by our own Girls Tennis Team. By ending the season with a tremendous 7-win, 2-loss record, the girls showed great improvement over last year. Two juniors displaying marked improvement were Sandi Slaven and Denise Garcia. They received special honors by being doubles runners-up in the section and advancing to the WPIAL championship, losing in the second round. Also, Debbie Clemons (7-1) and Karen Rehak (8-1), both graduating seniors, ended their careers with outstanding records. Next year will certainly be an exciting season once again with returning players: Sandi Slaven (8-1), Denise Garcia (7-1), Pam Gregg (7-2), Lori Meute (6-2), Barb Gunther (7-1), and Tracey Bianchi (2-2). We wish the Fort Cherry Girls Tennis Team the best of luck in making a name for itself both within and outside the school.

Cheerleaders Add Enthusiasm and Style to Sporting Events

M. Carter, D. Mrenak, C. Phillips, C. Kress, J. Phillips, R. Zarka, L. Donati, C. Margerum, B. Sawhill, A. Lewis, A. Stanish, L. Williamson, K. Lukan.

Once again our cheerleaders gave Fort Cherry a reason to be proud. The squad won three ribbons, two superior and one excellent, and an "outstanding squad" plaque while attending a summer cheerleading camp at Robert Morris College. Money for camp and uniforms (the uniforms were changed to red and gray this year), was raised through the sale of notecards and dishcloths. Another reason we have to be appreciative of our cheerleaders is the long hours each girl spends cheering for both girls and boys sporting events. By splitting the twelve member squad into two halves, the girls were able to make their schedules less grueling. Thanks again for keeping school spirit high during good times and bad.

The inexperienced but spirited 1979 Junior High Football team coached by Mr. Linkesh turned in a fine season finishing with a two win, two loss record. This was a successful record for the Rangers because most of their pre-season practices were lost to the strike. When the season started, the team pulled itself together in time to enjoy an excellent 1979 campaign. The defense led the Rangers to both victories, each an exciting 8-0 win, one over Avonworth and the other against Carlynton. The team also played well in defeat, holding their own against highly touted and heavily experienced South Park and Peters Township.

Jr. Hi Cheerleaders Support Growing Teams

The Jr. High Cheerleaders are a spirited and highly enthusiastic group of young ladies under the supervision of their new sponsor, Miss Hainaut. They have represented their school, peers, and community throughout the year by displaying their talents and abilities at all major sporting events for the Jr. High. The Jr. High Cheerleaders (headed by Judy Carter) have written their own scripts for Jr. High pep assemblies and have participated in arousing the morale of the Fort Cherry players, friends, and peers throughout the season. The long hours of after school practice in preparation for each game is also taken in as part of their job. Each girl is truly a remarkable attribute to the squad, bringing a bundle of knowledge, patience, and inspiration, as all who have seen them at the various sporting events can testify. They are a totally devoted, spirited, and awe-inspiring group of ladies — they have worn your school colors extremely well and proudly all year.

The sports team which made the biggest turnaround from 1979 was undoubtedly the Jr. High Boys Basketball team coached by Mr. Rohm. After a winless season in 1978-1979, the boys had to get better, and did they ever. The Junior Rangers finished the season with a twelve win, two loss record, good for second in the section. Both losses were close decisions at the hands of eventual champs Burgettstown.

Leading the team to their fine record was freshman center Chris Wilson who averaged 19 points and controlled the rebounding in every game. Eighth grade forward Joe Phillis scored at an 11 points a game clip while pulling down his share of rebounds. Eighth grader Mark Cole showed great skill in handling the ball, running the team from his point guard position. A host of other talent was also available for action.

Teaching fundamentals and developing skills for future Senior High competition are the objectives of the Junior High Program, and under the skillful tutorage of Mr. Rohm, this program is beginning to bear fruit.

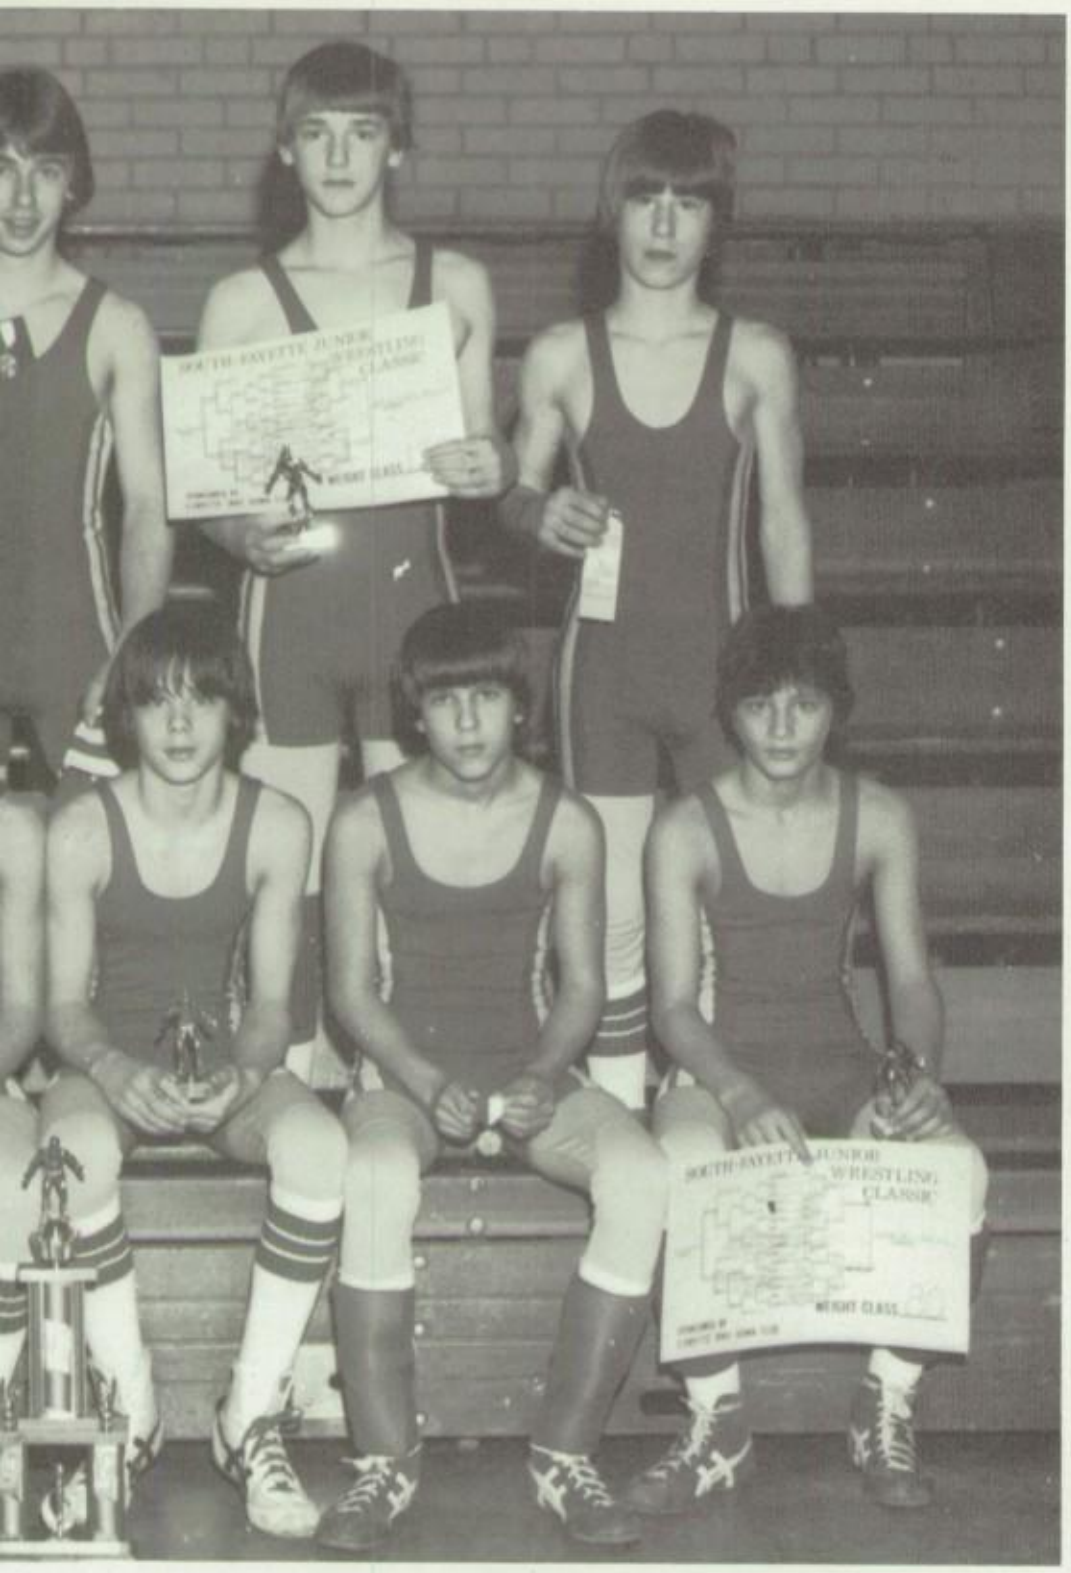
Coach Mr. Zeno



T. Walker, B. Klinsky, J. Brezinski, D. Cowden.

Wrestling has been one of the most successful teams on the Senior High level at Fort Cherry the past few years, and, if this season's Junior High team is of any indication, wrestling will continue to prosper. Coach Zeno's Junior Rangers finished with a six win two loss record in dual meet competition as well as capturing the championship of the South Fayette Wrestling Tournament. Highlights of the dual meet season were the 48-35 victory over Cecil and the 55-22 win over powerhouse Chartiers-Houston.

The Rangers were strong in each of the weight classes. This was demonstrated by five different wrestlers claiming titles in the two tournaments the team entered. Champions in the Cherry Hills Wrestling Classic were Jerry Halton, Shane Moore, and Doug Williams. Additionally, Jeff Brezìnski, Alan Fasnacht, Larry Scott, and Dan Whoolery captured runner up honors. At the South Fayette Wrestling Tournament, the Rangers placed an amazing number of wrestlers in the top four in their respective weight classes. Twelve wrestlers achieved this height to head the team to overall victory. Three individuals, Jeff Brezinski, Jim Clemons, and Doug Williams, were crowned as Champions. Two more Rangers, Mark Baldigowski and Don Lauderback, attained runner up status.

Under the instruction of Coach Zeno the team gained needed experience and showed tremendous mat ability. We should all keep a watchful eye on these young wrestlers, for in the future most of them will comprise our future Senior High mat team. Who knows, maybe a future state champion will come from this talented lot.

Girls Improve Skills for Future Action

When looking at the final record of the Junior High Girls Basketball team, it appears as if they had an unsuccessful season. Although they did register only one win as opposed to nine losses, the girls accomplished much of what they set out to do. Surely, the girls would like to have won more games, but probably as important as winning in Junior High sports is the development of skills.

This duty rests in the hands of coach Miss Smith. She introduced the girls to the sport of basketball, and for some of them, it was their first taste of the game. Miss Smith then tried to teach the girls the basic skills they will need as they move on to the Senior High level. The girls were rough around the edges as the season opened, but when it closed, the young Rangers had mastered many of these skills.

This season's squad showed a willingness to learn and a lot of spirit which should make them good athletes during their remaining years at the Fort.

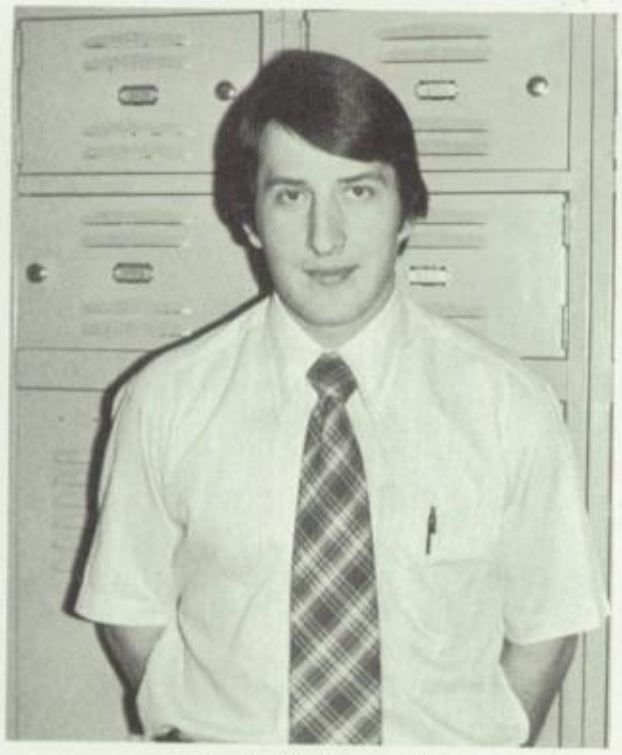
Pitched first no-hitter in F.C. history against Avella (2-0) on May 17.



Coach Mr. Yanosik

Although gaining little recognition, the 1979 edition of the Ranger baseball team was one of the most exciting and successful ever fielded at the Fort. The team remained in contention for the section championship throughout the season and finished in a dead heat for first place with Chartiers-Houston at the season's close. A special play-off game between the Rangers and the Bucs was needed to break the tie and, regretfully, we came out on the short end.

But the team had nothing to be ashamed of. Head Coach Yanosik and assistant Coach Zeno built a team adept in all phases of the game. The Ranger nine could beat you in many ways. Seniors (Class of '79) Jim Carlisle, Scott Cook, and John Snatchko provided great pitching depth when pressed for mound duty. One through nine, the Ranger batting order could all come up with the big hit. Kurt Bedillion, Scott Koraido, Scott Russell, Mark Sember and Ray Sherge all had successful seasons at the plate. Defensively, each member of the team turned in many fielding gems. A mixture of experience and youth on the bench provided tremendous replacement strength.

All in all it was a season none will forget, and one that will provide a goal for future teams to shoot for.

The Successful World of F.C. Sports

The Jr. Hi Girls Basketball team warms up before a tough home game.

Fort Cherry's Cheerleaders lead the crowd in spirit fielded cheers for our Sr. Hi Girls Basketball team.

Six members of the tough Ranger defense combine to bring down a Carlynton ball carrier.

Giving it everything he's got, Don Tokar wrestles an exciting match with an Avella wrestler.

Demonstrating his skill and form, Gary D'Angelo goes up for two against South Park.

One of the most successful sports programs in the area has been that of our school, Fort Cherry. Our teams have won section championships, and one, our 1960-61 basketball team, became state champions. We routinely send individual athletes to regional qualifiers, and often a golfer or a wrestler will make the state tournament. Undoubtedly, Fort Cherry has established its image as that of an all around sports powerhouse.

During the 1979-80 sports season, our teams didn't capture any section titles, but overall the teams were fairly successful. The combined record of all of our teams hovered around the even mark. But this doesn't mean we didn't have our share of great plays and miracle days. Nine different Fort Cherry wrestlers, both Jr. and Sr. High, were named champions at various tournaments. Our basketball team was victorious in the Christmas Tournament, winning the title for the second successive year. A girls doubles team from the tennis squad competed in the WPIAL playoffs. Our football team played much better than expected, winning five and tieing one of their nine games. Every athlete who competed on a Fort Cherry team in 1979-80 will have many great moments to remember the season by.

Every athlete and coach showed his total dedication to the school, the sport, and himself by his performances. Winning and losing is always important, but the athlete's spirit made the outcome secondary in many cases. Whether it was a basketball player calmly sinking a last second free throw or a volleyball player waiting patiently to serve at game point, the individual's total dedication and spirit rose above the situation. Our coaches should be commended for the extreme patience they showed and the welcomed assistance they gave our athletes. Without them, we would be in very bad shape. Most of all, every member of every team was a winner in the eyes of their peers and the fans.

Undoubtedly, every one would like to have that one more chance or one more game to prove himself. But in spite of this, we had our share of magic moments and glorious games that none will soon forget.

Preserving Memories While Keeping High Standards Objective of Panorama Staff

The 1980 yearbook staff is glad the opportunity to produce this version of the Panorama was offered us, and we are glad that we accepted the challenge. The many hours of hard work we put into the production was well worth the trouble. When we undertook this difficult task our goal was to produce a book that met all of the required standards as well as to please the student body and faculty. We hope that we have not failed.

The process of selecting the staff took place during the spring of '79. Seniors-to-be interested in joining the staff were asked to write a letter of application to Mr. Lusi, the sponsor. From these applications and through his personal knowledge of the applicants, he was able to select the students who would comprise the staff.

Although we pushed to reach a few deadlines and misplaced a few pictures, the job of producing the Panorama ran smoothly. Every member of the staff contributed in some manner, whether it was through selling ads or through the actual production process.

Again, our yearbook family is thankful for the opportunity to produce the 1980 Panorama. We are grateful to Mr. Lusi for the expert guidance he offered us and for the freedom he gave us to express our own ideas and creativity. We appreciate the patience the administration and faculty had with us; we always seemed to be bothering them. No doubt, the experience of working with one another to reach a common goal will benefit us in our future work ventures.

Ski and Pen Pal Clubs New in 1980

Ski Club

In its first year at Fort Cherry, the Ski Club has really gained in interest and popularity. Through the Ski Club, students have the opportunity to try their hand (and legs) at this popular winter sport. This year the Ski Club sponsored several skiing trips to Seven Springs. The outings were enjoyed by everyone who participated, even by those who had never been on skis before. Some members have even decided to take up the sport more seriously and have taken skiing lessons on their own.

Much of the club's strength, of course, comes from the sponsor: Mr. Johnson. An avid skier quite familiar with the slopes at Seven Springs, Mr. Johnson hopes to expand the club in an even larger and more active scale in the coming years.

International Pen Pal Club

One of the most rewarding clubs at Fort Cherry is the International Pen Pal Club. Through correspondence with students abroad, members are exposed to foreign cultures and customs. By exchanging letters, they gain a greater knowledge of world events through the eyes of their foreign counterparts. Although the language barrier was a problem only with German Pen Pals, the six other foreign countries represented — Australia, Brazil, England, France, Sweden, and West Germany — returned every letter in English, a language with which they seem familiar.

By participating in the club, students not only learn about the world and other nations but also receive the chance to make lasting friendships. Because Pen Pals are chosen on the basis of age and sex, members are more likely to be matched with someone to whom they can relate. The twenty-three members of the club, sponsored by Mr. Prandini, are indeed fortunate to be able to take part in this fascinating activity.

Literary Journal

Our report for the Literary Journal this year is an unhappy one: The L.J. is alive, but not well, and the prognosis is only fair.

Come on, Fort Cherry! There's a little bit of (good) poetry in everyone.

Art Club

Giving those students who excel in art an extra opportunity to explore this exciting field is the objective of the Art Club. Membership is restricted to those students who are enrolled in either of the two Sr. High Advanced Art Classes. Mrs. Petousis, the club sponsor, selects the members on the basis of their grades in these classes.

This year, the club held its fourth annual art fair. Student work was displayed and was available for purchase by students and faculty. The club also planned to raise money in order to purchase some type of art material which will be available for use by future Art Clubs.

Get Smart Drama Club Play

The Drama Club has always been a big and exciting club at Fort Cherry. For several years Mr. Filosi has sponsored the club. He enjoys working with members who are interested in theatre and may want to pursue a career in drama.

The club tries to explore each of the various aspects of Dramatics and Theatre whether it is acting, directing, improvising or stagework. Because of this, members benefit from a wide range of activities and gain many kinds of experience.

This year the Drama Club presented the play "Get Smart" and had a very good turnout for the production. The audience, however, only sees the final presentation of the play and not all of the time, hard work, and fun that go into the planning of the productions.

This year marked the third anniversary of "Oscar Night," a special evening presentation given to honor outstanding actors and actresses of the year. Awards are given to members of the Junior Class and Senior Class play casts as well as to Drama Club play casts.

Pinnacle Main Responsibility of Journalism Class

The journalism class, run by Mr. Noll, is responsible for the publication of the school newspaper, The "Pinnacle."

The class also spends time during the year working with the electronic media — radio and television. The pupils are required to produce their own radio and television shows, including the script, sound effects and all other aspects of the presentation.

Co-editor of the Pinnacle Eric Ullom sells a copy of the special first edition of the 1979-1980 school paper to Tim Kovach.

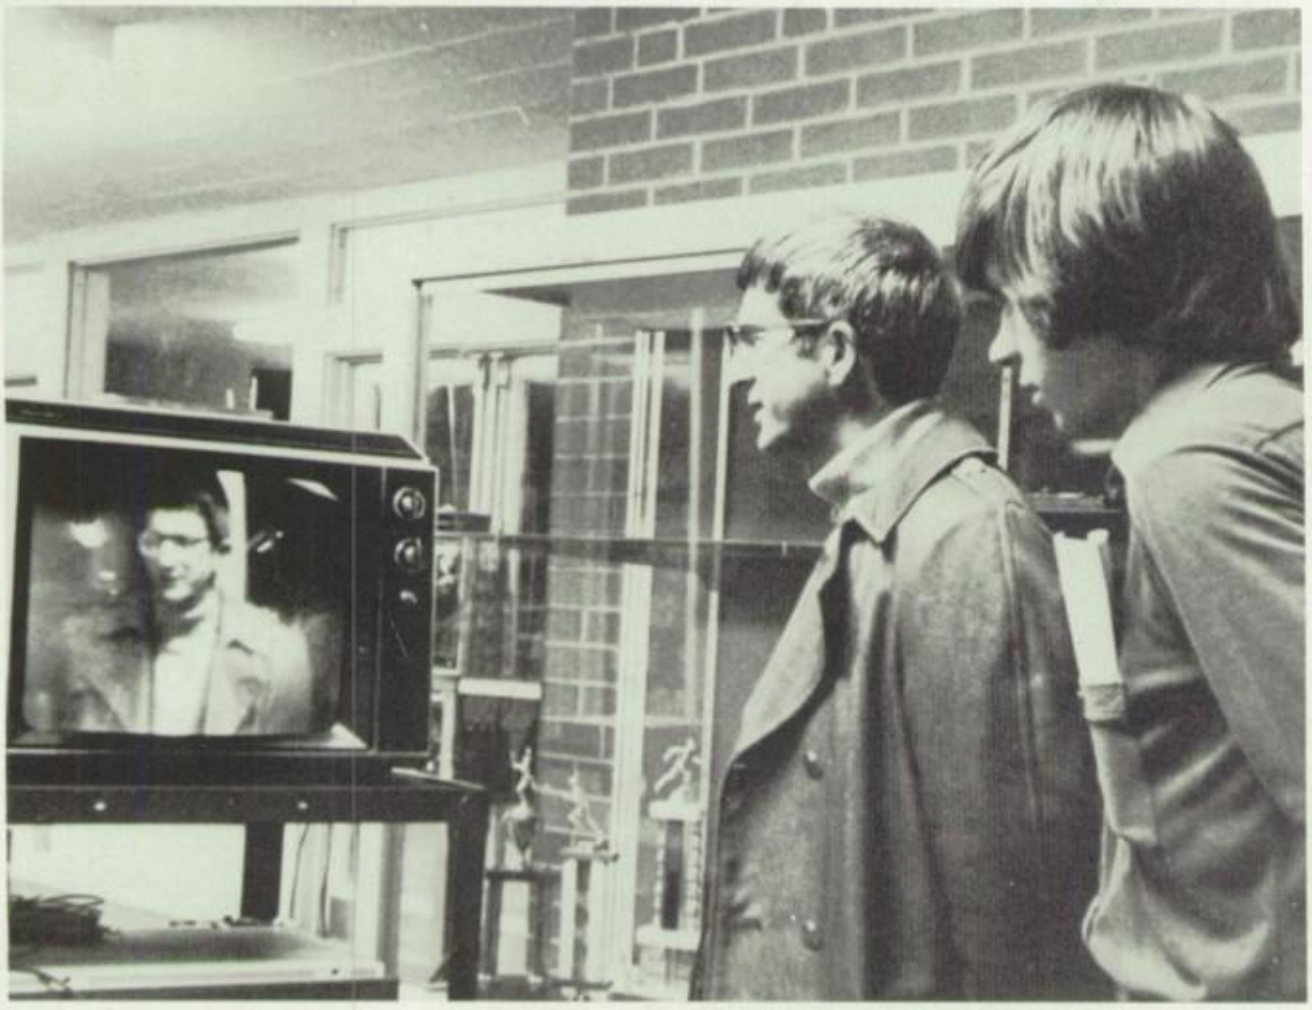
Electronic Media Studied by Video Club



A video machine placed in the lobby during Open House catches the interest of visitor Mr. Punola and student Paul Lefebvre.

The fast growing area of visual communications is studied by the video club. Students both in and out of the classroom, are instructed on the production of television programs. Also, the club provides a service to the school by taping school events. By having the chance to work with video equipment first hand, members receive valuable experience. Many video students are extremely enthusiastic about this opportunity and spend much of their free time on video projects. The club plans, as they have in the past, to produce four shows to be sent to California State College for judging.

Jr. and Sr. High Councils

The Senior High Student Council is one of the most important organizations at Fort Cherry. Sponsored by Mr. Filosi, its main function is to create harmony throughout the school. It also serves as a council for student expression.

The Council consists of four elected officers and fifteen homeroom representatives, one from each Senior high homeroom. Meetings are held regularly each month to plan activities and discuss issues.

Some of the activities sponsored by the Student Council in 1980 were the Homecoming ceremonies and the Christmas dance. Also at Christmas time, the Student Council decorated a live tree in the office lobby and sold carnations.

The Junior High also has an organized student government which promotes harmony among the Junior High students. Like the Senior High Student Council, it, too, sponsors many activities and encourages student expression. This year the council was sponsored by Miss Spada, Miss Perkins, and Miss King.

Jr. High Students Kept Busy by Hobby and Drama Clubs

Hobby Club

In its second year of existence, the Hobby Club is one of the more interesting Jr. High clubs. This club, sponsored by Mr. Zeno, explores the various hobbies of its members. Each person in the club receives the opportunity to display and discuss the hobby of his choice.

Jr. High Drama Club

When Miss Hainaut, the new sponsor of the Junior High Drama Club, was asked to give us a report on the activities of the club, she reported that the members and the officers were busy making plans. Some of these plans included a bake sale, a talent show, a tentative field trip, and a one act play for the Spring.

In its fourth year of existence, the Rod and Gun Club continues to be one of the most popular and most active organizations with the Senior High student body. The members of this club, led by Mr. Antoszeski, are able to exercise their hunting and fishing skills by taking field trips during the course of the year. The outdoorsmen are also able to compete against one another during club sponsored contests.

Club members made their annual trip to the Sportsmen's Show at the Pittsburgh Civic Arena during the winter months. Many hunting and fishing techniques were demonstrated by skilled outdoorsmen giving the viewers a chance to improve on their own skills. They were also able to purchase hunting and fishing materials.

A day of fishing at Raccoon State Park was another highlight of the club's activities. Through this experience, the anglers were able to practice their fishing skills while enjoying the pleasant atmosphere of Raccoon State Park.

Three sporting contests were again sponsored by the Rod and Gun Club. The Big Buck, Big Trout, and 22 shot contests were held to give the members a chance to prove their expertise in these fields. The Big Buck Contest was held during the fall Pennsylvania deer season with participants restricted to hunt instate. The contest winner was Jeff Loffert who bagged a nine point near Bulger. The Big Trout Contest was conducted during the opening of the trout season with a prize awarded to the member who hooked the biggest trout. The 22 shoot was held at the North Fayette Park with prizes awarded to the expert shots in two types of firing.

The Afro-American Club has for many years been an active organization at Fort Cherry. "Black History Week" was observed in the spring with displays and art work being set up around the school. Bulletin boards were decorated and displays were put in the art room show case.

Another interesting activity of the club is the tracing of Fort Cherry graduates to find out what schools and universities they have attended and what careers they may have entered. When we went to press with this report, the club was busy making plans for their annual field trip to Pittsburgh and for the Urban League Banquet.

One of the newer clubs at Fort Cherry — the Chess Club — is also one of the most popular. Meetings were held once a week in the cafeteria where members practiced the game and improved their strategies. The officers, with the help of their sponsor, Mr. Gaul, also planned the Chess Tournament, the annual event that is held every spring. Stimulating logical thinking is the main attraction of this club to its members.

Future Farmers of America

The FFA is a national organization of students enrolled in vocational agriculture in fifty states and Puerto Rico. Organized fifty-one years ago, the FFA is an important part of the curriculum of vocational agriculture in public schools.

Through active participation the FFA members learn by conducting meetings, speaking in public, participating in contests, earning awards and recognition, and developing personal leadership skills. The FFA offers the opportunity for achieving a personal goal of becoming productive citizens, which will make our homes, schools, and communities better places to live and work.

In 1929, the Future Farmers of America was organized in Hickory. In 1979, our chapter celebrated our 50th anniversary. During the past fifty years, the H.G. Parkinson FFA chapter has been recognized in the state of Pennsylvania for its work in Vocational Agriculture Education and the FFA program.

Throughout the year the chapter presents many awards. The highlight each year is the awarding of the Star Greenhand and Star Chapter Farmer. Last year's winners were Star Greenhand, Lori Gilbert and Star Chapter Farmer, Kenny Alrutz.

The "seed" planted fifty-one years ago has germinated, found fertile soil and has grown into the fruitful organization of today — The H.G. Parkinson Chapter of Fort Cherry High School.

It sponsors many activities throughout the year in which students who are either members of the club or enrolled in French class participate. In the fall, a field trip was taken to Pittsburgh where students watched the performance of a French-Canadian folk group. The French club also sponsored a "Sadie Hawkins" dance this year. Future plans include visits to a Foreign Language Festival and to French Restaurants.

In previous years, the French students have taken trips to Montreal and to France. The club hopes to organize another trip to France in the 1980-1981 school year.

Formed to give the students a chance to pursue further knowledge of the Spanish culture, the Spanish Club continues to be one of the Fort's most popular clubs. Through visits to Spanish-speaking countries and through participation in Spanish events the members are exposed to the heritage of Spain. Events like the Pināta Party, the Taco Party, and the Churray Chocolate Party are celebrated by the Spanish Club every year.

Although one of the oldest events sponsored by the club, the Pināta Party is still as exciting as ever. The pināta is a paper maché object filled with candy and money which is tied to a string and hung overhead. Everyone forms a circle around the pināta, and one person is selected to try to hit the pināta. This person is blindfolded and spun around three times. He then is given a long stick and receives three chances to strike the pināta. If he misses, someone else is blindfolded and given the chance to strike the pināta. When the pināta is struck and broken open, everyone in the circle rushes on to the floor and tries to get as much of the candy and money as he can.

F.N.A. Explores Health Fields

The best instruction for a career in nursing that one can receive is on the job training, and that's just what the Future Nurses of America Club offers. Any girl interested in entering the exciting field of nursing is well advised to join this club. These prospective nurses receive first-hand experience working in the nurse's office with Mrs. Cowden. The members perform the various techniques basic to becoming a good nurse.

But their learning does not take place totally in our school. A field trip to a local hospital is usually taken to give the girls the opportunity to observe the day to day functions necessary to the successful operation of a hospital. The club also visited the Washington County Home for the Aged during Valentine's Day. There, the FNA presented each patient with a flower. Members were also able to watch the expert care offered to the senior citizens by the nurses.

Money used to make these field trips was raised through the club's candy sale. The club also held their annual FNA banquet at the close of the school year.

Business Club Prepares for Business World

The Business Club, sponsored by Mrs. Bee, has been involved in many interesting activities this year. Almost every homeroom was involved in their Christmas door decorating contest, a project which many students enjoy. Parties for the winning homerooms provided an extra incentive for each homeroom to come up with an original design. Another Christmas activity sponsored by the club was a party for all high school personnel before the Christmas vacation. Making fund raising fun, the club worked very hard in the sale of Christmas Candy Grams. The club's plans for this year include another money making project, field trips, and a Senior Banquet.

Y.E.A. Strengthens Student Faculty Relations

The relationship between students and faculty is one of the most important aspects of the educational process on any level. Promoting these relations is the job of the Fort Cherry chapter of the Youth Education Association (YEA).

The club, along with sponsor Miss King, organizes various activities to bring the students and faculty closer together. Teacher Appreciation Day was again held this year. To show their appreciation for the dauntless work that the faculty perform, the club held an all day party to honor the teachers during their planning periods.

Student Teacher Day, which has become one of the highlights of the school year, was again enjoyed by the students and the faculty. On this day, the faculty are "relieved" of their teaching duties. After a lot of planning, senior members of the club are able to experience the hard work of teaching by actually conducting several classes.

During the Christmas season, the organization sent Christmas cards to retired Fort Cherry teachers.

The club also held other activities. An evening of skating at Mt. Lebanon, a field trip to Buhl Planetarium's Laserium and the Pittsburgh Aviary, and the annual banquet were examples of these. Also, two club members, Judy Brown and Dawn Babcock, attended the Pennsylvania Education Association joint meeting on February 10th at Belle Vernon.

The Jr. and Sr. High Librarians once again were under the supervision of Mrs. Sforza, who returned as the high school librarian after a sabbatical leave.

These students, along with Mrs. Sforza, try to make the library a more peaceful and organized place for study and leisure reading.

The librarians also help Mrs. Sforza with the everyday business end of the library. They check books in and out of the library, keep records of the students with overdue books, and place books and magazines in their proper place on the shelves.

Without these student librarians, our library would not be the smooth-running place that it is.

Math and Science Clubs Provide Extended Classroom Work for Interested Students

Science Club

The Science Club serves students who are planning to pursue a science related career and also those students who are just interested in this fascinating field.

This year the club invited speakers from a number of industries and schools to talk to Fort Cherry students about opportunities available to them in the field of science. Club meetings were lively and interesting. New breakthroughs, current events, and problems concerning the science world were discussed. The club also sponsored an assembly presented by an Energy Education Specialist from Penn State University. The program was entitled "Energy for Tomorrow" and was designed to "increase students understanding of the intricate social, economics, and scientific aspects of energy and use."

The Science Club provides a place where students can find answers to many of their questions and gain new insights into the fast changing world of science.

Math Club

The Math Club provides a very important tutoring service for Fort Cherry students. The members of the club, sponsored by Mr. Gaul, are the backbone of the Math-Help program. Students who are having trouble with their math courses meet with members of the Math Club who can help them with many of their problems.

This year, the Math Club set a high goal for itself — to purchase a mini-computer. A school-wide math contest was held to help raise the money needed to purchase the computer. The computer will be a great asset to the club and to the school as a whole.

Also, this year as in previous years, the club sponsored the advanced math contest at California State College in which Fort Cherry placed third.

Gymnastics

In its third year of existence, the Fort Cherry Gymnastics Program continues to grow and improve. Each year the gymnasts develop more and difficult skills adding to the excitement and variety of the gymnastic show. The 1979-80 group consists of approximately thirty students with the majority of the participants in the Junior High. However, some of the more accomplished gymnasts are Senior High students. This year the gymnasts began their workouts in November, concentrating mainly on tumbling skills. The focus then shifted to apparatus work (balance beam, still rings, parallel bars, uneven bars, vaulting and side horse) with the climax being the gymnastic show at the end of March. The show included a tumbling exhibition, a diving roll exhibition, apparatus and floor routines, a vaulting exhibition, a dance routine, and a humorous "clown" act.

Physical Fitness

Fort Cherry is proud to be a part of the United States Marine Corps Youth Physical Fitness Program. Students involved in this demanding program practice each activity period and after school. Two teams from Fort Cherry will compete at the University of Pittsburgh in May in various events, such as sit-ups, push-ups, standing broad jump, pull-ups, and the shuttle run.

Chorus Effort Raises $1,500 for Children's Hospital

Rangaires-Rangettes Choruses

Fort Cherry's own choruses seem to be growing bigger and more impressive every year. The combined choruses this year put on a very special Christmas program in honor of the "Year of the Child" on December 19. The production, which took a lot of time and preparation, included two performances and was well worth the effort. A sell-out at both performances, proceeds from the first performance, which was geared more to the younger children, went to the Children's Hospital Fund. Money collected from the second performance went into the chorus treasury to be used toward the purchase of electronic equipment. The same concert was taped by WJPA and broadcast over the radio on Christmas morning.

Also very successful this year was the Children's Hospital Drive organized by the choruses. A total of $1500.00 was collected through various activities. Part of this campaign was a giant Christmas card placed in the office lobby. For a ten cent or more donation, students and faculty could sign the card which was later presented to the children at Children's Hospital.

To raise money for the much needed electronics equipment, the choruses sold hoagies in the fall, and stuffed animals during the winter.

At this printing, the choruses were preparing for the "Spring Concert."

Jr. High Choruses and Band

Jr. High Band

The enthusiasm expressed by the members of the Junior High Band is an inspiration to the other students. Directed by Mr. Burns, the band never fails to put on an exciting concert, sometimes even using elaborate special effects. To prepare for their concert these young musicians in grades seven through nine practice diligently both at home and during the seventh period at school. In 1980, the F.C. Junior High Band maintained its tradition of excellence by giving a concert that was enjoyed by all who attended.

Fortress Choruses

If the performances of the seventh and eighth grade choruses are of any indication, the choral director, Mr. Tuma, does not have to worry about the future of the Fort Cherry Choruses. Their performances in the concerts they presented won them as much acclaim as their elder counterparts did. These seventh and eighth graders showed many of the skills necessary to become successful workers of the future Range-Aires or Range-Ettes.

But this does not mean that the seventh and eighth graders have reached the peaks of their abilities. The youngsters still must master some of the difficult tasks needed to become integral parts of the future choruses. For instance, the transition from singing in unison to singing in four part harmony must still be perfected by them.

Their basic ability to sing had to be demonstrated by auditioning before Mr. Tuma in order to gain admittance to the chorus. Once they became a part of the chorus, many long nights of practice had to be put in. Since the seventh and eighth graders do not have a chorus class as a part of their schedule, these after school practices were necessary.

Freshman Chorus

This is the fourth year that the Freshman Chorus has been a four-part chorus, using soprano, alto, tenor, and bass voice parts. This is a difficult thing to achieve, especially for young voices; however, under the direction of Mr. Tuma, the Freshmen have been very successful.

This year the Freshman Chorus put on an excellent performance at the Christmas concert; at the time of this printing they were hard at work to put together their performance for the spring concert.

The members of the Freshman Chorus are looking forward to the challenging years ahead of them as future members of the Rangaires and Rangettes Choruses.

Officers and Senior Committees Make Decisions

Jr. Class Officers

Organizing the Jr.-Sr. Prom is the main burden faced by the officers of the Junior class. The money needed for the Prom is raised mainly through pizza sales.

But the Prom is not the only reason that money is raised by the Jr. class. This year's officers, being ambitious, also had plans to raise as much money as possible in order to start their senior year with money in the bank.

Sr. Class Officers

Once again the Sr. class officers successfully guided their classmates through their graduating year. The four officers were elected by popular vote of the senior class.

The officers, along with the seniors, worked energetically to raise money to offset the cost of the yearbook, to pay for the senior banquet, and to present the school with a class gift. But the most important task of the senior class officers, of course, will come in future years when they will have to organize class reunions.

Committees

The Announcement Committee and Magazine Committee are two groups that have existed at Fort Cherry for a long time. Both groups are organized to aid the graduating classes fulfill some of their responsibilities.

The Announcement Committee presents the class with choices for their announcements, and the Magazine Committee collects magazine sales money and processes the order blanks. Both groups are to be commended for the work that they do in aiding the class and its officers.

Probably the most prestigious club in the school, the Varsity Club includes any student who participates in a Varsity sport. The primary function of the organization, of which the cheerleaders are also part, is the awarding of Varsity jackets to juniors who have lettered in the same sport twice and who have been members for two years. In order to raise money for the jackets an inherently successful candy sale is held twice yearly. Co-sponsored by Mr. Garry and Mr. Loughman, membership in the Fort Cherry Varsity Club is an honor which any student would be proud to hold.

Special Events

The lives of the fourteen girls selected as majorettes last spring have been busy. After tryouts for Head and Drum concluded, the squad organized itself and began preparing for the school year ahead. Jackets had to be ordered, uniforms decided upon and fund raisers set up. The fun and hard work at summer practices began in June with the first week of band camp where the new majorettes learned basic drills and commands. During the end of June and the beginning of July, unofficial practices were held three mornings a week and every day for the rest of the summer, including another week of band camp. Money for pep assembly uniforms, lighted batons and other expenses was raised by a very successful pizza sale and various small bakesales. The long awaited day of their first performance came very quickly, but the well-organized majorettes were prepared and proudly let the band through the streets of Kennywood Park in a "Salute to Disney." Marching in front of familiar faces at the Washington County Fair Battle of the Bands, the squad got their first real taste of stage fright.

Although tempers sometimes flared, they had for the most part learned to work together by the time school started. This was fortunate, because with the opening of school came the pressures of creating and perfecting four routines weekly. Sponsor designated practices began seventh periods with Mr. Vroble and every night after school with Miss Keller. It was all worth it, however, when the excitement of the first pep assembly and football game came upon them. After football season, the majorettes led the band in two parades, a Halloween parade at Western State Penitentiary and a Christmas parade in McDonald. The Majorettes were scheduled to perform in two upcoming concerts, a Pops concert in February and a spring concert in April.

By providing glamour and excitement to the marching band, the Rangerettes have made a name for themselves at Fort Cherry. Under the leadership of Michaele Frame and Sandy McConaghy, the 1979-80 Drill Team proved itself to be better than ever. Using money raised through hoagie and bake sales, the group purchased new indoor and outdoor uniforms which were popular with other students. The glory of performing in front of the school at pep assemblies and football games, however, came only after a summer of grueling practices and two weeks of band camp. Once school was in session, every day practices continued with the help of the sponsor, Miss Keller, who spent long hours after school with the group and also accompanying them to all public performances. The season was highlighted with several special events. Accompanying the band to Kennywood Park's "Salute to Disney" and the Washington County Fair "Battle of the Bands" this summer was fun and provided the Rangerettes with experience. Although the group is usually active only during football season, this year they participated in two additional events: a Halloween Parade at Western State Penitentiary and a Christmas Parade in McDonald. Now that the season is over, the juniors and sophomores are already looking ahead to next year when they will try to meet the standards set by this year's team.

Ranger Band Performs for School &

Marching Band

In addition to its usual half-time performances, the 79-80 marching band attended a number of special events. The band, under the direction of Mr. Jack Vroble and assistant, Mr. Burns, held the first week of band camp early in the summer in order to prepare for their first performance of the season at Kennywood Park's "Salute to Disney." Showing off their new uniforms to the community for the first time, the band marched at the Washington County Fair "Battle of the Bands." Combining with other Pittsburgh area bands, they gave a great pregame performance at the University of Pittsburgh stadium, resulting in a unique experience for all involved. For our Homecoming, the F.C. and Carlynton bands joined together to create another memorable half-time performance. Rehearsals for a Halloween parade at Western State Penitentiary and a Christmas parade in McDonald kept the members busy even after football season was over. With the help of the Band Boosters, the F.C. Marching Band succeeded in generating spirit and making football games and pep assemblies enjoyable experiences for all. The Majorettes and the Drill Team, of course, are also important parts of the marching band, and their contribution is equally appreciated.

Concert Band

Preparing for a winter "Pops Concert" on February 22 and a Spring Concert in April usually keeps the Sr. High Concert Band busy for a great part of the year. Consisting of talented musicians in grades 10-12 and the majorettes who perform routines with them, the band practices persistently every day during the 7th period. Although smaller than usual, the 79-80 concert band under the direction of Mr. Jack Vroble will no doubt create pleasant evenings of music for the many people who attend these concerts.

School Board Chooses Dr. John F. Manion As New Superintendent

Dr. John F. Manion

This year at Fort Cherry we are happy to have the opportunity of welcoming a new superintendent. After a careful selection process, the Fort Cherry Board of Education made Mr. John F. Manion, a man of intelligence and experience, their choice. When we received the opportunity to interview Dr. Manion, we found him to be a friendly yet serious person with a deep concern for the individual student and his needs.

No stranger to public education, Dr. Manion is highly qualified for the job. After graduation from Turtle Creek High School, he entered the navy. He then attended college at Duquesne University where he received his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Education degrees. Later, he served as graduate assistant at the University of Pittsburgh while working on his Doctorate degree.

He began his career in education as a social studies teacher at Penn Hills High School. As an assistant principal he worked at both the Gateway and Keystone Oaks School Districts. When he moved to the Freeport Area School District, he served as principal and was later promoted to superintendent.

Dr. Manion did not hesitate to show us where he stands on the basic ideas and issues of public education. One of his strongest concerns is that "Regardless of talents, each student should have the chance to reach his fullest potential." He feels that "Free, good education helps to insure the development of a Democratic society" but that "the quality of education is relative to the district." "Students," (he wishes parents would realize), "are their parents most valuable possesions." On the otherhand, Dr. Manion is a firm believer in dollar accountability. Each dollar must be "spent wisely and with thought." He finds both advantages and disadvantages to a small school district like Fort Cherry. Closer contact with students and faculty is probably the most rewarding aspect of small schools.

Our new superintendent already has some specific changes in mind for the coming years. There may be alterations in the curriculum which he feels must be constantly evaluated. He feels that "stagnancy is a mistake which must be evaded." Another area which needs constant scrutiny is the administration. A most important project already underway is the revamping of the guidance program which needs expansion and reorganization. Re-evaluating the reading program is also a challange to be faced in the not to distant future. Dr. Manion stresses that a good reading program will "help students to reach their potential and find a place in society."

The Fort Cherry School District and Dr. Manion seem to have adjusted well to each other. He has found the school board to be receptive to the changes he recommends. The students, faculty, and administration have been very cooperative. Optimistic about the contributions he can make to our school system, Dr. Manion has already inspired a friendly spirit throughout the school district.

7th Grade

As seventh graders at Fort Cherry, we face a new beginning and new challenges. After the orientation period, we receive our new schedules and soon begin to adjust to the new classroom procedures. Accepting new responsibilities, we also begin to learn how to handle the greater freedom that we now have. The fun of the old afternoon recesses and recreation periods is now replaced by the excitement of our first pep assemblies and the prospect of developing our personal interests by participating in clubs and other activities. The step is a big one, but with the help of our administrators, of our teachers, and of our upperclassmen, we successfully experience the transition period from the old familiar elementary schools to the new challenging high school.

8th Grade

Having gotten into the swing of things as seventh graders, as eighth graders we are ready to participate even more in the life of Fort Cherry. We are now acquainted with our once unfamiliar surroundings; we begin to compete more with one another as students and athletes; we begin to make lasting friendships.

With apprehension, we wait for the Spelling Bee to take place in the spring. We look forward to the announcement of the winners of the American Legion Award at the Awards Assembly at the close of the school year. Our participation in athletics has begun to match that of the senior high students, and spending more time on our studies has now become a habitual part of our daily routine.

As eighth graders we begin to feel that we are becoming an accepted part of Fort Cherry.

Everybody's dancing, and these eighth graders are no exception.

Our Freshman year is one of anticipation and preparation. As we look to the years to come, we are beginning to see the opportunities available to us, the responsibilities that will be placed upon us, and the demands that will be made of us.

As the "Seniors" of the junior high, we are looked up to, yet we must prepare for a new beginning in senior high. Those of us who are involved in sports and other activities must work harder than ever at what we do in order to succeed in senior high. This is also the time that most of us begin to make important decisions about our courses of study and our goals in life. We look forward to our experiences in senior high.

10th Grade

Our first year in senior high sometimes brings back thoughts of seventh grade. In a way we are starting all over again, but this time as young men and women, with our junior high years as a solid foundation on which to build.

Guided by our acquired knowledge and by the friendships we have made, we now get closer to the final realization of our goals.

This, of course, is really a year of transition for us. There are two more busy years ahead of us for which to prepare. But our class as a whole is strong. We will be ready.

11th Grade

As juniors we look forward to our final year of school, but we pause to enjoy our middle year of high school. We are accustomed to the pace of high school life, and we are now beginning to be looked up to by the underclassmen.

We elect our first class officers, those who will lead us through this period of excitement and activity. Our devotion to our school and grade is increased when we receive our class rings. We sell pizzas to raise money for the prom, and hard work among our classmates will surely lead to a successful class play. Most important, we begin to make serious decisions about our futures as we start to anticipate our lives after high school.

Nearing the end of high school, we look forward to our future, but we also begin to reminisce about our wonderful years at Fort Cherry.

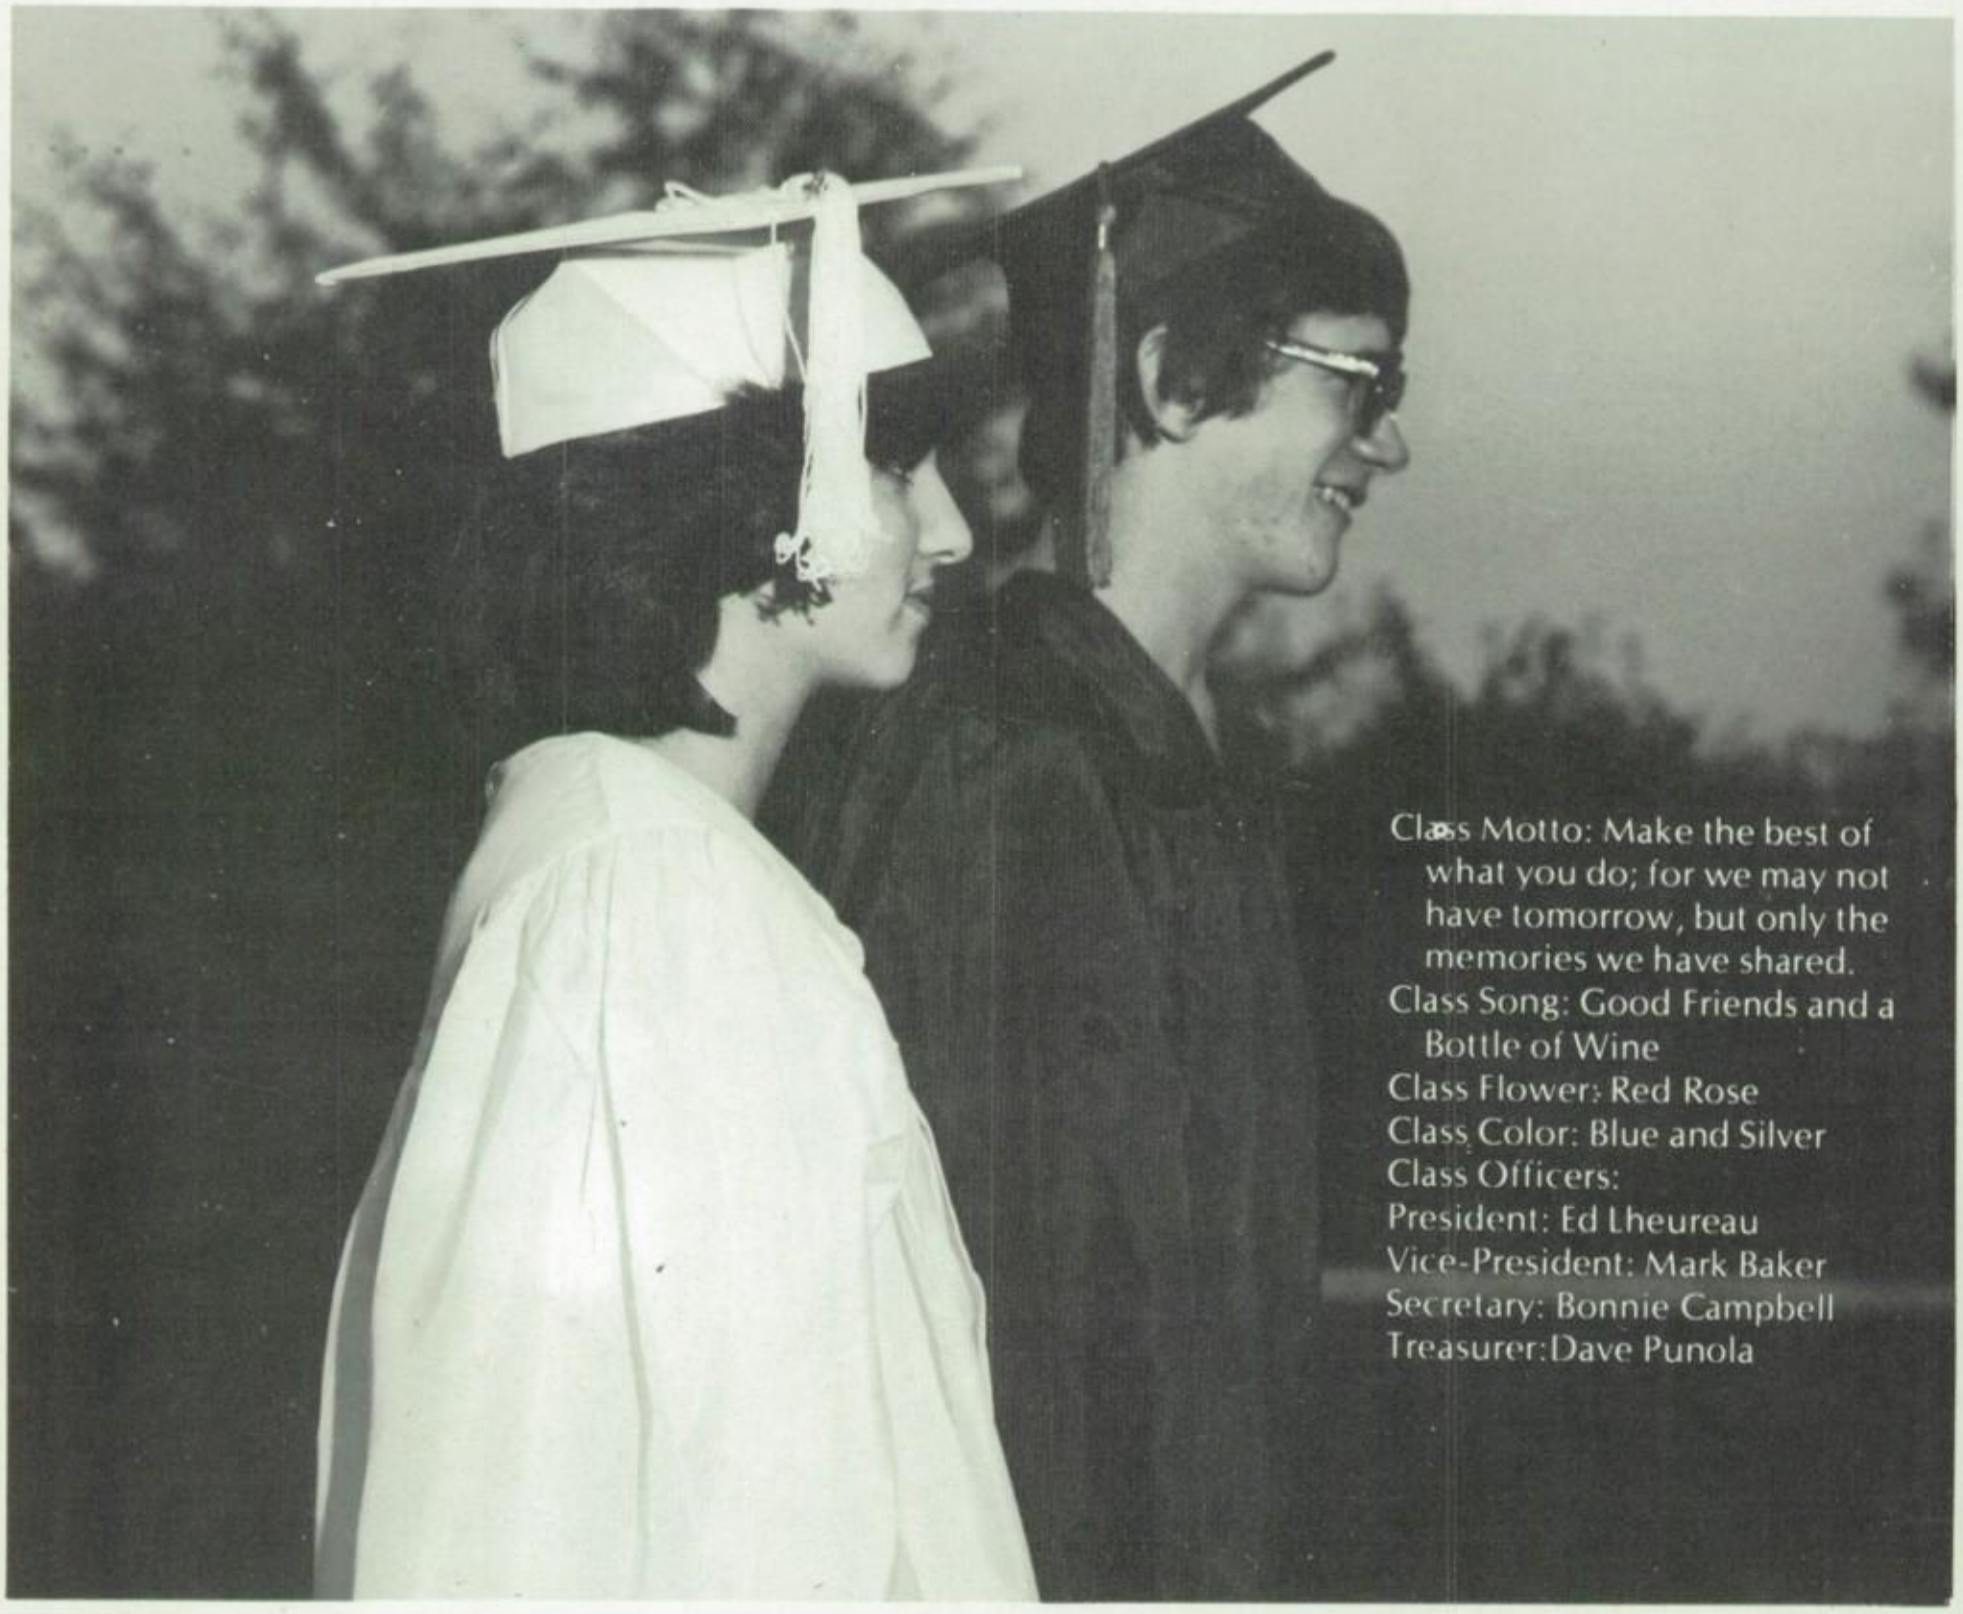
Seniors!

We are the seniors of 1980; this is our year. It is fast paced, exciting, and filled with activities. Our fund raisers, the magazine sale, the candy sale, and the senior class play are useful not only to help us raise the needed money, but also to pull us together as a class. This is also the year that we will experience homecoming, senior night, the senior banquet, posing for senior portraits, and, of course, the highlight of the year — the prom.

The close of this year, of course, brings to an end the years we have spent at Fort Cherry. In the past, it often seemed as if this year would never come; now that it is here, however, it seems only yesterday that we started. Even the excitement of graduation becomes somewhat dimmed by the thought of leaving behind special friends and memories. In fact, as graduation day approaches, we now begin to realize that all the hard work and goodtimes, all the adventures and misadventures, all the headaches and heartaches will be a part of our lives forever. We have reached the end, but we are ready for the beginning. We are grateful to Fort Cherry for everything.



Class Motto: Make the best of what you do; for we may not have tomorrow, but only the memories we have shared.
Class Song: Good Friends and a Bottle of Wine
Class Flower: Red Rose
Class Color: Blue and Silver

Closing

Making It . . . Memorable

It Was Great to Be

at Fort Cherry in 1980.

We Had Great Activities.

We Had Great Classes.

We Had Great Teams.

We Had Great Clubs.

We Had Great People.

Center: The graduation announcement and the "Alma Mater" are sentimental memories for the class of 1980. Top: The Rangers are number one according to Tim Edmonds and Damon Powell. Bottom Left: During history class, Mark Tobin slips off into a little daydreaming. Bottom Right: On YEA Dress Up Day, Michele Donati "clowns around" in the hall.

FORT CHERRY HIGH SCHOOL

TRUTH HONOR INTEGRITY

Hail to thee our Alma Mater,
Towering high above the land.
In our hearts your name we honor,
In our memory you will stand.
We give to you our devotion,
For truth and for wisdom taught.
And for thee Fort Cherry High School,
We sing your praises
High to the Sky.

Clas

We Had a Great Year!

Standing high on Fort Cherry Hill, the water tower is a landmark of the surrounding community.
